Christie Admits Seven Murders

Killed Wife of Leonard Evans London Strangler Tells Court

By ROBERT BRANSON

LONDON (UP) — "The Strangler of Notting Hill" confessed today to murdering seven women and told how he gassed and slowly choked his victims to death in a deck chair while making love to them.

More murders were pinned on John R. Christie by his own attorney as the defendant was put in the witness box at the second day of his trial on charges of killing his wife.

Derek Curtis-Bennett, famed British lawyer who defended atom traitor Klaus Fuchs, said he will prove Christie "is as mad as a March hare when he kills people." He asked the jury for a special verdict of "guilty but insane" despite the formal defense plea of innocent.

In support of Christie's insanity plea in the murder of his wife, Curtis-Bennett said:

"If you think the man who killed this woman should hang then the proper step is to go to your member of Parliament to bring in a bill for the execution of the insane, and then it will be the law of the country."

The meek-looking little clerk took the stand before a packed court at London's grim Old Bailey courthouse.

Voice Could Hardly Be Heard

Dressed in a dark blue suit with a dotted necktie, he put out a hand to steady himself as he climbed into the box. His face was pale. His eyes stared blankly through his thick horn-rimmed glasses and his voice could barely be heard as he took the oath as a witness.

The defense attorney startled the packed Old Bailey courtroom on the second day of Christie's trial by linking the mild-mannered clerk to the 1948 murder of a woman whose husband was hanged for strangling their daughter.

Curtis-Bennett read a statement in which the 55-year-old defendant said he also strangled British factory worker Amelia Eady in 1943.

That same year, Christie's statement said, he strangled a "very tall" Austrian girl and buried her in her leopard skin coat.

He was quoted as saying he "gassed the three women" whose partly undressed bodies were found sealed behind wallpaper near his wife's body.

"I gassed the three women whose bodies were found in the alcove by getting them to sit in the deck chair in the kitchen between the table and the door," the statement said.

With a piece of rubber tubing from a gas outlet he "let the fumes rise."

"When they started getting overcome, that's when I must have strangled them," Christie explained in the statement.

In the statement the spindly defendant confessed, amid gasps from the court spectators as it was read, that he strangled Mrs. Timothy Evans in 1949.

Her husband, a 27-year-old truck driver, was convicted and hanged for the strangulation of her 14-month-old daughter which occurred two days later. Although Evans was tried only for the child's death, his wife's murder figured in his case and Christie was the chief prosecution witness at the 1950 trial.

"I feel certain I strangled Mrs. Evans and I think it was with a stocking," Christie said. "I did it because she appealed to me to help her commit suicide."

"I turned on the gas tap and as near as I can make out I held it close to her face," he said. "When she became unconscious I turned the tap off."

Covered Body With Quilt

He said he covered Mrs. Evans' body with a quilt on a bed and explained the situation to her husband.

"I told Evans that no doubt he would be suspected of having done it because of the rows and fights he had had with his wife," Christie related.

However, he denied he had anything to do with the strangulation of Evans' infant daughter.

Evans was charged with the murders of both his wife and daughter but was convicted only of the child's death. The other charge was dropped.

Both Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald and presiding judge Sir Donald Finnemore said that although Mrs. Evans' murder figured in her husband's trial, he was rightly sentenced to death for the child's murder.

Speaking in a voice that was inaudible at times, Christie recounted each of his seven confessed slayings.

At no time did he speak above a whisper. The bewigged judge had to lean over to catch some of his replies and relay them to the court.

He said that in April, 1952, his doctor told him to go to a hospital for mental treatment but "I would not go because my wife would be left on her own."

He said his wife had a choking fit in bed last December.

"Her face was bluish. She seemed to be choking . . . I tried to get her to breathe again and could not . . . I didn't like to see her like that," he said.

He broke down. His frail shoulders shook and he wept. Finally he sobbed:

"And then I put her to sleep . . . I saw a stocking there and tied it round her neck."

"I left her in bed," he said, and later "put her under the floor."

Death of Nehru's Opponent Causes India Street Battles

NEW DELHI (AP) — Club-swinging police and Hindu extremists battled in the streets of India's capital today in the wake of the death in political captivity of Syama Prasad Mookerjee, a major opponent of Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

Mookerjee, 52-year-old leader of the extremist Jan Sangh party, died early today in Srinagar, capital of Kashmir, where he was jailed five weeks ago for defying a ban on his entering his state. Seizure of Hindu-owned lands by the predominantly Moslem Kashmir State government had caused Jan Sangh agitation and violence in neighboring Punjab.

The government attributed Mookerjee's death to a heart attack following pleurisy and said he had been moved to a nursing home when he became ill.

News of his death brought 1,000 demonstrators into streets of the old sections of the city. Police officials said constables charged the mob with clubs and arrested 20 demonstrators after four policemen were seriously wounded. Police took special security measures through the capital.

Suspended Official Bares Details of Controversial Bid

What! No Ear Muffs?

When Amber Kilshaw wants to go on a picnic, she wants to go on a picnic and this "unusual" June (you should excuse the expression), weather isn't going to stop her. To combat the unseasonably chilly breezes, Amber donned her winter furs. Meanwhile, the best the Dominion Weather Office can promise for Wednesday is more of the same—temperatures to reach a so-called high of 62, perhaps a little more sun, "brisk" winds. No Hearing Given Before Suspension

By GORDON FORBES, Times Legislative Reporter

Donald A. C. Smith, buying agent for the B.C. purchasing commission, broke his silence today to relate the details of the incident which led up to the provincial government's suspension of himself and another night government official.

Mr. Smith, in a statement to the Times, declared he had been dealt a "grave injustice" in the one month's suspension over purchase of a grader, because he was given no chance to explain his actions to the government.

"There was no proper investigation in this case," Mr. Smith said. "I was suspended without even being called in to the minister's office to defend myself. I had to ask for a hearing after I was suspended."

Mr. Smith said he would welcome an inquiry into the whole case "because I know myself and Mr. Crowe would be absolutely cleared."

Nothing to Hide Says Smith

Mr. Smith, and Bert Crowe, forestry department mechanical superintendent, were given one-month suspensions by Premier Bennett for allegedly accepting a revised bid on a grader for the forestry department after tenders had been opened. They were suspended even though their action saved the government $500.

Breaking his official silence this morning, Mr. Smith said:

"The fact that I have remained silent since my suspension seems to have created an erroneous impression that I have something to hide. This is not the case.

"I very much appreciate Mr. Gunderson's statement that I had done nothing dishonest. But I feel that a statement of the facts of the case are necessary."

The buying agent, who has worked for the government for 30 years with an unblemished record, said the "fact of the matter as I was damned if I did and dammned if I didn't" in the situation.

Here's his statement:

"In the first instance quotations were called for a grader for the forestry department. They were recapitulated in the usual manner and submitted to the forestry department for its analysis and selection.

"In the meantime, the forestry department received a letter from Pacific Tractor Co. of Vancouver, one of the bidders, stating as they already had an order for one of this type of grader for the public works department that a saving of $500 could be passed on to the government if the forestry department cared to avail themselves of their type of grader (Warco).

Forestry Department Contacted

"The forestry department returned our recapitulation, selecting this Warco grader as the one most desirable for their operation, setting out in detail the reasons for its selection.

"Before taking into consideration this $500 saving, the forestry department again was contacted (by phone) as to whether this $500 in question had any bearing on the selection. The answer from Mr. Crowe was 'no.'

"It was felt under these, conditions that every precaution had been taken in assuming that this $500 saving had nothing to do with the selection. The forestry department needed that particular type of grader, regardless of the $500.

"Under these conditions, it was felt criticism would be forthcoming if the $500 was not taken into consideration and deducted from the amount of the order. If that wasn't done, we would have been throwing away $500.

"Regarding the change in the quotation, which seems to be the bone of contention, this was merely done as information to the stenographers who take particulars directly from the quotation submitted.

"As the $500 freight allowance affected the tax, it was necessary to change the totals accordingly. But this could not be construed as a change in the quotation.

'Leave It to the Public to Judge'

"I'm quite pleased to leave it up to the public to judge for themselves as to whether the action was warranted.

"I feel that had a proper investigation been made before the suspension, decision was made, this matter could have been cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned.

"I feel I have taken every precaution in this matter and acted both in the best interest of the government and the public in general.

"I must stress that I don't interpret my action on the freight allowance as being the same as revising a bid. I contend that this matter was brought about by the fact that two graders were shipped on one car, and the firm was good enough to pass the saving on to the government. And I was definitely informed that this grader was the only one suitable for the particular operation.

"The company was going to get the contract, regardless

39 GERMANS DIE IN UPRISINGS

Second Riot Leader Executed; Uprising Continues in Eight Cities

BERLIN (UP)—Russian execution squads and Communist courts dealt out merciless reprisal today for East Germany's June 17 uprisings, while all West Germany went into an official state of mourning.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flew to Berlin from Bonn to address a mass meeting at Berlin city hall and to pledge "we shall not rest" until the entire German people "have freedom again."

Flags throughout West Germany flew at half staff.

The Communists disclosed that a second East German had been executed as a ringleader in last week's bloody revolt—this time at Jena, scene of some of the wildest rioting in the Soviet zone.

Eight citizens of West Berlin were known dead and at least 218 others were missing as result of the revolt which exploded first in Soviet-run East Berlin and spread to the entire Soviet zone of East Germany.

From at least seven other East German cities came continuing reports of clashes between ragged East German workers and Russian tanks and troops. In the uneven struggle, the demonstrators hurled bricks and stones at the tanks which in turn fired at point blank range.

Twenty-five were reported killed in Leipzig alone where some of the demonstrators were crushed beneath the tank treads.

Throughout the entire seething zone, Russian reprisals were swift and harsh.

FIVE REPORTED EXECUTED

Five persons were reported executed at Magdeburg.

Rioting and bloodshed were reported from Magdeburg, Unterwellenborn Quedlinburg, Merseburg, Leipzig, Thale and Schierke.

Eight coffins rested side by side on the West Berlin city hall steps today as Adenauer delivered "a solemn oath on behalf of the whole German people" not to rest until the Soviet zone's 18,000,000 people are freed and Germany is united again.

59 Today

Telegrams, letters and telephone calls from all over the world poured today into the Paris home of the Duke of Windsor, congratulating him on his 59th birthday. The Duke and his American-born Duchess, for whom he gave up the British throne, spent the day quietly, with no special celebration except a quiet dinner party with friends.

Five Polio Deaths In Yukon Epidemic

EDMONTON (CP)—An outbreak of polio in the Yukon has taken at least five lives, striking 59 civilians and 71 military men and their dependents.

Dr. M. R. Bow, Yukon's chief medical officer, said today that the 16 paralytic and 43 non-paralytic civilian cases have included three deaths.

Meanwhile, Col. E. J. Young, the army's Western Command medical officer, reports that of the 71 cases in military families, 17 are paralytic, 44 non-paralytic and eight are not yet diagnosed. There have been two deaths among the military cases.

ROKS Ready to Fight Alone, Rhee Tells UN

Defiant South Korean President Warns Troops to Fight Indians Sent to Guard PWs

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Defiant President Syngman Rhee said today his army would "fight alone" if an unacceptable truce is signed and warned his troops would fight any Indians sent to guard war prisoners.

The 78-year-old president made it clear in two public statements and at a 15-minute meeting with Gen. Mark W. Clark that South Korea's "final" decision was to continue the fight against the Communists.

Rhee also gave Clark a three-point armistice plan that would remove Chinese Communist troops from North Korea, give Rhee a mutual security pact with the United States, and limit a postwar political conference in Korea to three months.

He told Clark at the presidential palace in a remarkably friendly meeting that his decision to reject the current agreement between the United Nations and Communists is unchanged.

Clark flew back to Tokyo shortly afterward, giving Rhee a cordial back-slap before getting on the plane.

Rhee denied reports Clark had handed him an ultimatum during a 70-minute meeting Monday and the brief encounter today.

"It would be more correct to say I delivered the ultimatum," Rhee said.

United Nations officials and Eighth Army officers appeared convinced the rebellious Rhee actually would not send his 400,000-man army against 1,000,000 Chinese and North Koreans.

They believed, however, that Rhee had "reserved the right" to take independent action against the Communists.

"COMMUNIST" STATE

Rhee branded India as a "Communist" state which would favor Red "explainers" in re-indoctrinating anti-Communist prisoners.

For this reason, Rhee said a clash between South Korean and Indian troops would be "inevitable."

"Who is going to stop it?" he asked. "That clash is inevitable. You should thank me for telling you."

Rhee emphasized in his interview his position as the major force standing between the UN and a truce with the Reds.

"They do not try to force the Kremlin or the Chinese Communists," he said. "They only try to force me, a stubborn, weak old man. How can they think of such a thing? I can't understand it?"

Pinay Meets Problems in Cabinet Bid

PARIS (UP)—Antoine Pinay, the small businessman who as premier of France caught the public fancy last year with his "save the franc" campaign, faced tough sledding today in his attempt to become premier again in time for the Bermuda Big Three meeting.

Pinay had two key parties against him—one right wing and one toward the left. And while he attempted, through politics, to patch up a makeshift truce, paralysis crept further through the nation's financial system.

Premier Rene Mayer, whose downfall May 21 started the record-breaking 34-day crisis, called a cabinet meeting for this morning to deal with the financial crisis on an emergency basis.

The lame-duck cabinet drew up a bill to legalize another huge inflationary overdraft on the Bank of France to save the nation from bankruptcy.

The bill permits the government to draw up to $142,850,000 from the Bank of France to strengthen the nearly empty treasury.

The national assembly was called in emergency session later today to approve the measure.

WEATHER IS GETTING MILDER

Scientist Confirms Old-Timer's Tales

SASKATOON (CP)—The persistent change to higher temperatures suggests the northern hemisphere is entering an upward weather cycle that could have great economic significance to Canada and Europe, Dr. B. W. Currie, head of the department of physics, University of Saskatchewan, told the Canadian Phytopatsological Society, a section of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, Monday night.

Investigation has shown that a gradual rise in temperatures had gone on for as long as 1,500 years.

If temperatures continue to rise through this long period, Dr. Currie visualizes millions of additional acres of land going into agricultural production in Canada and Europe, the St. Lawrence, Great Lakes and Hudson Bay open to shipping almost the year round and easier and greater development of Canada's northern resources.

Dr. Currie said significant trends in precipitation and temperature are apparent in Prairie weather records.

Temperatures have been steadily rising since 1880, Dr. Currie said.

The disadvantage to the rise in temperature was the increased evaporation of moisture without additional rain to compensate for it. The advantage was a growing season eight to nine days longer than 50 years ago. The cold-line for the production of economic crops has moved north perhaps 50 to 100 miles by this long-continued change, he said.

ST. LAURENT OPENS CAMPAIGN

Liberal Leader Warns Nation Not to Endanger Prosperity

BY CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister St. Laurent, raising the spectre of the depression-ridden thirties, Monday night launched the Liberal party's bid for re-election. He said Canadians risk their prosperity if his government is not returned Aug. 10.

The prime minister entered the pre-election fray with a speech in English and French over CBC networks, repeating it with some elaboration on a platform in Windsor, Ont.

Mr. St. Laurent, seeking a second term since succeeding the late prime minister Mackenzie King in 1948, said the next government may have to decide questions "which will determine whether there is to be peace or war, continued prosperity or another depression."

"This is surely not a time to take needless risks with our own future."

Canadians were going to think back to the terrible conditions of the thirties and contrast them with today's conditions. Since the Conservatives' term in power, 1930-35, Canada achieved economic strength, stature in the eyes of the world and sturdy unity at home with the Liberals.

The Liberals did not claim all the credit but "I am sure most of us will want to be careful we do not risk losing what has been gained."

Drew Offers Tax Cut, Efficiency to Voters

OTTAWA (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, says that taxes can be reduced $500,000,000 a year by "ending over-taxation" and increasing efficiency in government.

Taxes "can and must come down without delay," Mr. Drew said Monday night in a radio network speech.

The speech repeated the 16-point election manifesto presented by Mr. Drew Friday, promising to cut taxes by $500,000,000 a year.

Mr. Drew said Monday night that members of the government have since said such a reduction is impossible.

". . . Certainly economies are impossible under a government which refuses to conduct those ordinary business investigations which we have suggested and which any private business would be forced to carry out if it expected to avoid bankruptcy," he said.

Since the war the government had collected $300,000,000 a year more than the budget figures approved by parliament, he said.

A Progressive Conservative government would start with a $300,000,000 annual saving "by cutting tax collections to the actual budget figure presented to parliament," he said.

Tory Leader Spending Two Days in City

National Progressive Conservative leader George Drew will spend two busy days in Victoria.

Mr. Drew arrives at Patricia Bay at 2.30 p.m. Sunday. He will be met by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP.

The Tory leader will attend a garden reception at Gen. Pearkes' home later that afternoon and in the evening will visit Veterans' Hospital.

He will make a tour of inspection of naval establishments in this area Monday morning and that afternoon will address on open-air meeting at Memorial Park, Sidney, at 3 p.m.

Main address of his visit will be delivered at 8 p.m., Monday, at the York Theatre. It will be a public meeting.

Wednesday night, Esquimalt-Saanich Conservatives will nominate a candidate at Lake Hill Hall. Gen Pearkes is expected to be the only candidate. The meeting will be addressed by J. M. Macdonnell, Toronto-Greenwood MP, financial critic in the party.

CBCI Services Begin July 5 in Beacon Hill Park

The services will be held on succeeding Sunday nights throughout July and August, Dr. Vernon B. Taylor, president of the Victoria group, announced today.

There will be nine services in all with a different church denomination in charge each Sunday.

First service will be conducted by Rev. James E. Campbell of the Free Methodist Church. Each group will bring its own choir and solists. There will be a loud-speaker system.

Nanaimo Bastion City's Best Ad

NANAIMO—The city's bastion, built 100 years ago and still overlooking the harbor, is doing greater service to the city than ever before, according to Bruce McKelvie, prominent journalist and historian.

"Go where you will today," he said at a dinner Saturday night to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the little fort, "mention Nanaimo, and people will say 'the place where the Bastion is.' It's the best advertisement Nanaimo can have."

Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, also spoke at the dinner, sponsored by Native Sons of B.C.

"If we can build as well today as the pioneers did when they built the Bastion, we have done well," he said. "We should make what the Bastion stands for—stability and security—live in the hearts and minds of our people today, tomorrow and forever."

'No Strings' On CCF, Says Coldwell

BALCARRES, Sask. (CP) —CCF leader M. J. Coldwell says the federal election campaigns of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties are backed by "big business" and has appealed to the Canadian people to send a government to Ottawa with "no strings attached."

Mr. Coldwell spoke Monday night at this farm town 50 miles northeast of Regina in support of Percy Wright, CCF candidate for Melfort, in the August 10 federal general election.

"When CCF members go to office, there will be no strings on us," he said. "No business can say, 'well, we put up so much for you.'"

The CCF leader, heading into southern Saskatchewan after a speaking tour of northern constituencies, talked following a money collection from the 250 persons gathered here.

He charged Progressive Conservative leader Drew with making election promises and not saying how the promises could be fulfilled.

In his main attack on the Liberal government, Mr. Coldwell charged its leaders with being responsible for the 1950 railway strike, extravagance in spending, unequitable taxation and an unsatisfactory system for marketing agriculture products. He said Canada should have a national health plan.

"Best thing we ever did was teach our Tim to save."

"Look at him on his new bike. He's so proud because he saved up for it himself.

"Sure, Mom and I could have given it to him for passing his exam. But we had a better idea.

"Children who are taught the value of money have a great advantage all through life. We decided to give Tim an objective to save for. He wanted a bike, so we started a savings account for him at The Dominion Bank. The first dollar he put in looked mighty big to Tim in his new bank book.

"Each time he saved up a dollar, he made a beeline to The Dominion Bank. All the nice folks who work there, including Mr. Roberts, the manager, knew about Tim's bike and gave him lots of encouragement.

"Best of all, his bank account is making a business man out of Tim. He's always looking for odd jobs, like running messages or cutting grass. That lad now knows how to earn a dollar or two—and how to keep it.

"And now that Tim has his bike, he is saving for a new objective. He wants to be a Doctor some day. He'll get there."

Training your child to save now is a lesson he'll be grateful for, the rest of his life. Open an account for him at your nearby Dominion Bank. We'd like to meet him and do our share of encouraging. Remember, every account at The Dominion Bank is an important account.

Edinburgh Welcomes Radiant Elizabeth

Queen Reaches Scotland for Heavy Program Of Activities; Presented With Keys to City

EDINBURGH (AP)—The Queen came to her Scottish capital today for a glittering round of state ceremonies to mark her Coronation.

Radiant in a light blue coat and tiny, white close-fitting hat, the Queen stepped from the royal train to receive the keys of the city from Lord Provost Sir James Miller.

Then she drove with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, in an open carriage through two miles of grey stone streets, lined by crowds packed 12-deep.

Squadrons of clattering cavalry escorted her on the drive to her Holyrood House palace. Their scarlet and gold uniforms brought a brilliant splash of color to the grey misty morning.

High spot of the week's visit will be a national service Wednesday in St. Giles Cathedral, the high Kirk of the Scottish Church.

As the open royal carriage drove through the mist enshrouded gateway of the palace, a salute of 21 guns was fired from Edinburgh Castle.

After reviewing an honor guard, the Queen paused a moment—to pat the Argylls' regimental mascot, a Shetland pony—before stepping into historic Holyrood House.

Fighter aircraft which planned to fly-past in E formation as a welcome to the Queen remained grounded because of fog.

There was no sign of any demonstration against the Queen from fanatic Scottish nationalists who object to her use of the designation Elizabeth "II."

ST. LAURENT

Mr. St. Laurent posed two problems for the next government—the threat of Communism to world peace and Canada's dependence on a high level of trade with other countries.

Conciliatory gestures by the Communists must not be allowed to wreck the North Atlantic alliance. The defense build-up must continue. At the same time, every chance of better relations with the Communists should be explored, remembering meanwhile that peace is founded on strength and unity among men and nations of good-will.

The Liberals had been "pretty successful" in the past in meeting the problems of trade as they arose. He hinted that Canada would need all its vigilance, wisdom and skill to safeguard her foreign trade against advocates of high tariffs in the United States.

Influential groups in the U.S. had had "minor successes" in demands for tariff increases. The damage thus far was not serious.

"But the utmost vigilance and the greatest available wisdom and skill will be needed if Canada's interests in greater trade are to be promoted successfully in the United States and elsewhere in the world."

At home, the evidence turned up by the opposition to support charges of waste and extravagance "has certainly not been impresssive." Mr. Drew's claim that the opposition was denied information "is just not true."

Mr. St. Laurent, who moves today to Kitchener, Elmira, Elora and Guelph in the second day of his five-day Ontario tour, said the Liberals aren't going to make promises about social security. Those were matters implemented "to the extent to which the Canadian people decide on the social security they want."

B.C. Salmon Fishermen End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—A union statement Monday announced settlement of an eight-day strike of 1,500 British Columbia salmon fishermen following a membership vote on terms.

The statement said 90 per cent of votes counted so far had endorsed the terms and fishing will begin Wednesday morning at 8 a.m. PDT.

A joint statement last Saturday announcing the joint agreement was signed by United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (TLC), the Native Brotherhood of B.C., the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association, and the Fisheries Association of B.C., representing the owners.

The new prices are: Sockeye 22 cents a pound, cohoe 11 cents, pinks 7½, summer chums 5½, fall chums eight cents in Johnston Straits and the Fraser River and 6¼ cents in other areas.

The union had demanded 23 cents for sockeye, while cannery operators offered 20 cents.

Winch to Run In Vancouver East Federal Riding

VANCOUVER (CP)—A CCF nominating convention in Vancouver East riding tonight will put forward the name of Harold Winch as candidate for the Aug. 10 federal election.

Mr. Winch resigned as provincial leader of the party in April because of ill health. He now is reported "back on his feet" folowinig an extended vacation.

Mr. Winch declined comment Monday when a CCF spokesman said he would be nominated. His backers said "he's in."

Manitoba Man To Be Charged With Abduction

VANCOUVER (BUP) — George Prevost, 55-year-old resident of Churchill, Man., will be charged today with abduction, the RCMP declared.

An RCMP constable is scheduled to arrive from Winnipeg to escort Prevost back to the Manitoba capital for trial after his arrest in the company of five-year-old Linda Verfaillie of Winnipeg.

Prevost was arrested following a tip from Winnipeg police after he wired a friend in Churchill for $50. He signed his own name to the telegram, although he had registered at the hotel as "George Brown and daughter."

Prevost, supposed a friend of the child's parents, took the youngster for a week-long holiday at his home in Manitoba in May and never returned with her.

The child is in a home here awaiting the arrival of her mother. She had received good care throughout her experience, police said. Witness at the hotel said she often called Prevost "Daddy."

London Commences To Shed Glitter Of Coronation

LONDON (Reuters) — Workmen began to strip London of its Coronation glitter Monday.

By the end of next month festive London will have lost its attraction for thousands of visitors who have been pouring in daily from all over the world to see the sights.

Officials dropped earlier plans to keep the capital in its Coronation cloak until the fall because traffic pile-ups, overcrowded sidewalks and packed restaurants made everyday life a nightmare for Londoners.

"Operation Squirrel"
WE KNEW ALUMINUM was used for artificial limbs, crutches and other aids to the fractured human frame. Now word comes from England suggesting still wider horizons for this versatile modern metal. Seems an animal lover of Twickenham found a squirrel with a broken leg and fixed it up with a pair of wooden splints. These his furry patient immediately ate. So he made two more, this time of aluminum. No more trouble.
It's just one more example of the seemingly limitless uses of aluminum. And it helps explain why Alcan is increasing its aluminum-making capacity in Quebec, and building a new smelter in British Columbia. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Four Years With St. Laurent

IN OPENING THE NATIONAL election campaign Mr. St. Laurent did not have to make any apology for his record in the last four years. It speaks for itself in the present state of the nation. And for the future—in vivid contrast to Mr. Drew—he refused to make any promises.

In this respect the position of a government is entirely different from that of an opposition.

The opposition may promise anything it pleases and no one can judge in advance whether the promises will be fulfilled.

A government can be judged by a certain yardstick. It stands or falls not by speeches but by positive acts well known to everyone. Its actual record is not a matter of dispute or speculation but is written for all to see in its statutes and its day-to-day policies in every field.

Looking back over the years of Mr. St. Laurent's leadership the Canadian people behold a series of achievements that have seldom if ever been duplicated, in such a short period, throughout our history. Today they behold the most fortunate nation in the world, bar none.

A man who is not given to exaggeration and singularly devoid of personal vanity, Mr. St. Laurent rightly does not claim that the condition of Canada is entirely the result of the government's wisdom. Of course it is not. Nevertheless, as the prime minister says, we could not have reached our present position under a weak or a bad government.

Four years ago Canada seemed to be entering extremely difficult and dangerous times. For many nations that prospect has proved only too true. And in many respects our escape from the recent troubles and tragedies of the world has been unique. As foreign observers are constantly pointing out, usually with envy, this country's business has been well managed. The primary factor in that management has been Mr. St. Laurent himself, whose place in the confidence of his countrymen is also unique.

It is especially unique in the field of foreign policy. Mr. St. Laurent was one of the original architects of the North Atlantic Treaty, which he proposed long before most other statesmen were ready to support it. But Canada's adherence to the grand alliance and the defence program which supports it would have been quite impossible without the backing of a people united above all the historic divisions of Canadian races.

Mr. St. Laurent's supreme contribution to the life and history of Canada has been his ability to bring our two great races together in a fashion unequalled by any predecessor.

In domestic policy he has been equally successful. By his quiet and patient methods he has drastically altered our society for the better. Such reforms as universal old age pensions, the expansion of unemployment insurance, floor prices for farmers, the national health program and many other reforms have been matched by the expansion of national wealth necessary to carry them.

All these things Mr. St. Laurent has seen clearly and seen whole. Despite the temptations of an election campaign, despite the reckless promises of the opposition, he refuses to go any faster in this direction than the economy of the nation can afford. He will not match Mr. Drew in bidding for votes by increased expenditure or tax reductions which he knows to be impossible.

The voters need not expect from the prime minister a spectacular campaign or any synthetic political issue. That kind of appeal is not in his character. The Canadian people, who scarcely knew him four years ago, know him well today and can judge him for themselves, not by what he says but what he has done.

Considering the times he lives in, none of his predecessors has done better and few have done as well. It would be surprising indeed if the voters dismissed him in favor of an inexperienced successor who, having held no federal government office and having refused to announce any specific policy on any of the great problems now confronting the nation, resorts to promises as contradictory as they are irresponsible.

Policies and Punishments

ALTHOUGH IT IS DIFFICULT to get the complete picture on the civil service suspension case, because Mr. Einar Gunderson has refused the press the right to look at the documents, we cannot help but feel on the evidence to date that Premier Bennett was technically correct in his policy statement on the matter.

There must, he said, be no altering of bids after tenders had been opened. While it is true that in the case under discussion the civil servants saved the government $500, the Premier quite rightly points out that in other instances it might lead to abuses which could cost the province thousands of dollars.

The sanctity of the sealed bid is quite as important, in principle, as the sanctity of the secret ballot. It is vital that this should be recognized.

What disturbs many citizens, and particularly the civil servants, in this affair is the degree of punishment meted out by the Premier. It would appear that he has upheld the letter but not the spirit of the law. To suspend employees of long experience for a technical violation, with no opportunity to state their case, amounts to a technique of "you're not guilty—but don't do it again."

What was clearly called for here was a frank talk in the responsible minister's office, a review of technical procedures, and perhaps, if warranted, what is called in military circles a "reprimand."

There are two other aspects in this case which will result in raised eyebrows. The first is that the Social Crediters of Oak Bay—one of whom is mooted as Socred candidate in the forthcoming federal election—missed the point at issue completely, cried that the Premier's action was a negation of Socred principles, and suggested that party members should tear up their cards. In this reckless fashion they stirred up a nice little internecine battle which has ominous overtones for the future.

The second is that the protest which precipitated the suspensions came from an unsuccessful bidder, a business-man who is a recent convert to Social Credit. The alacrity with which the Premier jumped at one crack of the whip has occasioned much surprise.

Mr. Bennett is very much on the record with the campaign statement that "patronage has been abolished." We await with interest the formula which will show how a government can give business to its enemies and not its friends.

Recognizing Community Service

FOR MORE THAN A QUARTER century F. E. Winslow has been acquiring a unique distinction in this community. During that time he has been the man to whom citizens have turned when they sought direction in campaigns to help worthy causes. In him they have found a person ready to assume the tasks of a good neighbor and organizer for innumerable appeals on behalf of others.

On Sunday, before a crowd of 2,500, the Native Sons of British Columbia gave formal recognition to the works of "Eddie" Winslow, presenting to him the good citizen award of 1953.

The occasion was particularly appropriate. The presentation highlighted "I Am a Canadian Day" ceremonies in Beacon Hill Park. To those participating, Mr. Winslow became an example of that type of public service which expresses the ideals of Canadian citizenship — a willingness to work for the benefit of others without expectation of material rewards.

No particular episode was singled out as justification for the award. There have been many in Mr. Winslow's life. Yet it is not without significance that the Native Sons of British Columbia chose this year to honor an outstanding Victorian while he is busily engaged in efforts to hasten extension of the Victoria Nursing Home. That point should not be overlooked by individuals who appear to have ignored the urgent need for accommodation for our sick.

My Mummy Done Ptolemy!

WE VIEW WITH APPREHENSION the display now being offered at the corner of Douglas and Humboldt streets by Sir Rolph de Tunstall Sneyd. (If that isn't a stage name, it should be.)

Sir Rolph has sent us a couple of Egyptian mummies. They are authentic—small, black, sticky-looking creatures, and they are attracting considerable interest.

But oh! the tired jokes these fossils will inspire. Inevitably the remark will be passed that Victoria's mummies have stopped walking around the streets, and are now lying down. And just when we were beginning to be known as a wide-awake town, too!

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Blind Spot

AFTER an absence of even half a year it is very difficult, probably impossible, to catch up with the news at home. A blank space, a blackout, a lost week-end of many weeks, will always remain and can never be repaired.

Bruce

I return home to find my friends discussing a provincial election which is as mysterious to me as the affairs of the Politburo.

Some traveling British Columbians in Paris assured me that the Bennett government was certain of defeat.

In London I was told that no party could possibly win a majority.

A professor from the University of British Columbia outlined the events of the legislature's last session and recalled Mrs. Tilly Rolston's school formula but it was gibberish to me, as apparently it was to her. I never expect to find out what really happened. I shall go through life with a psychic scar, a kind of amnesia, a fatal gap.

Under such a handicap a man must be careful. In Winnipeg the other day I inquired kindly after a friend's wife and he informed me, with a certain coolness, that she had divorced him last spring. In Vancouver I ventured a few timid questions about public affairs and I could see that I was politely considered idiotic or drunk when I happened to be neither.

AND when I ventured [illegible] tain provincial politicians of the predictions they had made at the first of the year they clearly regarded me as a churlish fellow.

It is better, on the whole, to write off the last six months as a total loss, in many ways an incalculable disaster, so far as I am concerned.

I am not speaking of disaster in financial terms, though they are grim enough after a so-called European tour. I rise to say merely that foreign travel is a grossly over-estimated occupation and that any Canadian looking for a pleasurable holiday had better stay at home.

THERE is more fun to be found in British Columbia than in the whole of Europe, where the sights soon pall, the grandest architecture becomes a bore, the noblest cathedrals leave you cold, the famous blue trout of the Alps lack the flavor of our rainbows and cutthroats, the Italian spaghetti isn't as good as what your wife cooks, the wine palls, the coffee is bitter and the women homely.

When you find yourself yawning through a Shakespearean play in London and snoozing before the nude spectacle of a Paris nightclub it's time to come home.

AND it is only when you come home that you realize fully how much you have lost. One can perhaps live a fairly adequate life without knowing exactly what Premier Bennett, Mr. Harrison and poor Waldo have been doing since the first of the year, though I am sure it is all noble and fascinating. Nothing, however, can replace the lost spring on our Island.

YES, while I have trudged wearily through the jungles of Europe all my friends have enjoyed the incomparable Island spring. They have dug their gardens, watched the first seeds bursting, picked the first lily, and gulped the first strawberry.

They have been allowed, without interruption, to pursue the final satisfaction of their daily toil and actually been paid for it, while I have paid my own good money for the privilege of suffering the hardest work yet invented and undoubtedly shortened my life by a good [illegible] something much less interesting than affairs right here in this town.

NOTHING in all Europe, I mean to say, is more bizarre than the present state of our own local politics and before this mighty spectacle even the ruins of Berlin pale into insignificance. Any Liberal or Conservative politician will agree.

And all I have really learned, after talking to many eminent statesmen, economists and assorted experts, is that a wise man, as Dr. Pangloss said, will stay home and cultivate his garden, wherein alone everything of value grows.

A Sharp Eye on Social Credit

(Montreal Star)

IN the controversy that has broken out between Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Mr. Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, we come down on Mr. Keate's side on general principles. He jumped on Mr. Bennett for saying, after the election, that, while some people say there ought to be a strong opposition, he (Mr. Bennett) believed in a strong one-party administration. Mr. Bennett said Mr. Keate read into his words something he did not have in mind, and that there is nothing authoritarian about him. We are unconvinced.

The fact is that any party which proclaims the need of sweeping change is almost bound to develop dictatorial tendencies. It gets restive when it runs into obstacles. It is all but impossible, for instance, to talk to an ardent socialist without discovering that he wants to centralize authority and create a strong executive with sweeping powers. Similarly, the Social Crediter, who wants to turn our money and banking system upside down rapidly gets annoyed when he finds opposition to his creed.

After 1935 in Alberta, the Social Credit government developed these very traits. They tried to assume very wide powers over the people of that province; and, when they found the press published criticisms of their program, they passed a press act which would have given them the right to close up any publication they didn't like. Mr. Bennett has developed no such symptoms as these, but Mr. Keate is dead right in keeping a sharp eye on him, for what has happened in one Social Credit government can easily happen in another.

All that Mr. Keate has in mind is that, if a government seeks radical change, it must submit its program to prolonged public examination and debate. It must win approval of its program not only by the assumption of extraordinary powers but by the admittedly more tedious process of convincing people that it is sound.

The very fact that Mr. Bennett reacted so violently to Mr. Keate's remarks suggests that Mr. Keate very likely had hit the nail on the head, and was performing a highly useful function in saying what he did.

Over the Good Earth—and Under

(Ottawa Journal)

SOME among us who used to talk confidently about Chinese Communists being "only agrarian reformers," and who quit talking that way when events sat harshly upon them, have revived (with the prospect of a truce in Korea) the same sort of talk.

Not much sign that they are more informed now than they were in the first place. Indeed the only thing that has come in China in the way of "agrarian reform" is the purging and liquidation of land-owners, the almost identical course that was followed in Communist Russia.

Mao Tse-tung may have been pursuing have gone to Moscow to learn "agrarian reform." The fact is that he returned to China to spread communism and all its evils; to carry out bloody purges exceeded only in their horror by his Russian tutors.

Mae Tse-tung may have been pursuing "agrarian reform" when he marched his armies into Korea and began killing UN soldiers; not many will be inclined to believe it.

Mao Tse-tung may have been interested only in "agrarian reform" when he began his reign of terror against missionaries in China; not many will believe it.

And so on all down through Red China's story.

Pravda, the official Soviet newspaper, last week devoted 12 of its columns to a laudatory review of the second volume of the works of Mao Tse-tung. There was nothing in this review by way of praise of Mao as an "agrarian reformer." There was, however, this:

> "The works of Mao-Tse tung are a deep, theoretical communication of the experience of the Chinese revolution. They raise still higher the ideological and theoretical armament of the Communist party of China, have increased its battle capabilities and strengthened its leading role in the liberation struggle of the Chinese people. These works enrich the Marxist-Leninist revolutionary theory."

The Journal has said again and again that it could see no objection to recognition by Canada of Mao's government as a fact. But The Journal, taking that view, is compelled often to wonder.

About the only soil the Red Chinese seem interested in is that in which they dig pits for their victims.

How Much Is That Doggie in the Window?

As Our Readers See It

Since 1930 I have consistently voted Liberal, but now I have had enough.

I read with interest your editorial of the 19th June, in which you state, "When the polls close, is Canada to have a government or a mess?" In my opinion, it is such questions, and your editorials all seem to slant in the same direction, which are responsible for driving a very large number of fair minded people from the ranks of the Liberal party. The alternative to a Liberal government in Canada does not of necessity have to be a mess.

Towards the end of your editorial you state, "We believe the St. Laurent government deserves re-election on its record." The record, as I see it, demonstrates an utter contempt for the electorate.

On August 10th, many of the people will tell the Liberals with their votes, that they did not like the Liberal government, (a) overtaxing them as much as a million dollars a day, (b) sending General Kurt Meyer from Canada to Germany where they have no means of knowing if he is even in custody, (c) whitewashing the Currie Report, (d) permitting the escape of the French Count sentenced to death by the French government for collaboration, (e) giving a blunt "No" to the people's request for legal sweepstakes for charitable purposes.

To my mind, it is the Liberal government who are "a mess." The Conservatives under George Drew do not appeal to me. I am certainly not a Socialist or a Communist. When you stop this senseless damning of everyone and everything that is not Liberal, and clean up your own house, then I may come back to the Liberal fold. In the meantime, I am left with the Social Credit party, and to be quite frank, I am enjoying it.

"FED-UP."

ANSWERING MR. BATE

Since when has H. K. Bate become an authority on Douglas Social Credit? A short time back he was a voluble member of the Liberals. Probably, in the federal campaign, he will take the platform and explain to the satisfaction of the people the mysteries of the "Social Credit Monetary Theories" he speaks of?

The control of credit in Canada does not rest with any monopoly other than the government-owned Bank of Canada, which is under the control of the elected government of Canada. As a lawyer, Mr. Bate should know that but apparently does not.

The bandwagon riders are now one by one trying desperately to vindicate themselves; the more they try to "look into" Douglas Social Credit the more they will realize how hopeless their position is.

B.C. is still awaiting a satisfactory explanation, either from the platform or in the press.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE.

OUT OF THE FOG

British Columbia innocents will start to come out of the fog any time now and to realize that there are two brands of so-called Social Credit.

Originally there was only the orthodox brand as invented by the fabulist, the remarkable Major Douglas in the Old Country. The operation of this brand of Social Credit as a political contrivance has never been effected anywhere in the world, because even its inventor when called to Alberta by Aberhart, back in 1935, had to admit, that he didn't think it would work.

Nevertheless, because of its promise of an endless shell-out of funny money, it still has its die-hard advocates among that class of people who are not likely to ever possess any other kind of money. It will have no defenders among those who own stocks and bonds and legitimate currency. Quite true.

But, until they come fully out of the fog realizing that it just cannot be, many of the innocents will vote for Social Credit imagining they're going to have the real thing as invented by their idol, the great Douglas.

Then, there's the more successful brand, the Manning Social Credit as discovered in Alberta. It involves the liberal use of the tabernacle and hymn-book coupled with a plentiful supply of good orthodox cash pouring into Alberta from United States and Canadian companies looking for oil in its foothills and plains.

Under this brand of so-called Social Credit, the natural resources of Alberta are being rapidly sold out to the highest United States bidders flocking in from every state in the union. All they need, to buy anything in Alberta, is a hard money credit guaranteed by any one of Uncle Sam's worthwhile banks. No funny money accepted.

Ask any of these Wall Street financiers what he thinks of the Alberta government and he'll tell you quickly: "It's a really sociable, conservative outfit." Yes siree. Social Conservative.

And that's more than likely all the credit the funny money voter will ever see in B.C. He'll be able to obtain credit so long as he can promise to pay with good Bank of Canada currency, or a cheque on a good Canadian chartered bank.

WILL BE CLEAN

Allow me at this time to put on record my great personal regard for the Nanaimo riding's member of parliament, Major-General George Pearkes, VC.

As I see that I have been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Social Credit party in the federal election taking place on August 10, I would like my feelings to be properly understood as regards my possible opponents in the Esquimalt-Saanich election.

General Pearkes represents a party that to my way of thinking is now "outmoded"—and likely to become more so.

Canada is rapidly advancing in population, and those coming to her shores will vote one of two things: CCF or Social Credit, and let us truly hope it will be the latter choice.

Both the Liberals and the Conservatives have abysmally failed to impress those at Ottawa that there are any inhabitants west of the Rockies except the Redskins — my idea is that a rapidly expanding tide of Social Credit and Christian thinking may do that very thing.

Should I by any chance receive the nomination, I now wish to state that my own campaign will be absolutely clean from start to finish, no matter what my opponents may do.

Thanking you, sir, for your indulgence and courtesy in allowing me this space.

JAMES AUDAIN.

HOUSE SHORTAGE

The case of Mrs. Helen Lupu, as presented by her in a recent issue of the Times should be of vital interest to all thinking persons. We are spending money on civil defence, with orders to go into basements. This seems a foolish business in the face of the prevailing conditions. How long will a gullible public swallow such behaviour?

Who is responsible for the shortage of homes for low-incomed families? Big business should be big enough to realize that this excuse for keeping up big rents only cuts off its nose to save its face and they should be more afraid of such conditions as presented by Mrs. Lupu than a raid on us by the Russians.

A sleeping public conscience is a crime against humanity. "Is it nothing to YOU all ye that pass by?"

THANKLESS ART

Translation is always a trying and thankless art. In the field of poetry its demands on the translator are even unreasonable: its highest achievement is anonymity; and, ironically, to succeed the poet-translator must command a craftsmanship that transcends his individual needs. In simpler words, he must recreate clearly in his own language the color, imagery and music of a foreign tongue; at the same time he must express the emotion and symbolism of a foreign culture. This implies self-effacement, a difficult state for any poet in any language, since poetry is an intense form of personal expression.

—Lloyd Mallan in New York Times Book Review.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

A Change of Policy?

ALL sorts of screws have been loosened recently in Russia proper, in the satellites, and in the minor dealings between the Soviets and the West. Domestic political consideration undoubtedly weighed heavily in the decision to loosen the screws in Russia and the satellites, but this general screw-loosening was also needful, as preparation for a different kind of Soviet-Western relationship.

Joseph

Fourth and finally, Moscow began to give important hints, only about a fortnight ago, of the kind of cat it was preparing, in these different ways, to bring out of the bag. Only a few days ago, it was already a 2-to-1 shot that the Soviet leaders meant to make a serious, solid offer of German unification.

The main features of the offer would have been permission to the Germans to choose their own government, and agreement by the Allies to neutralize although not absolutely to disarm this new Germany.

Tthe U.S. state department has long had nightmares about such an offer, with its appeal to the Germans and its volcanic effect on American policy in Europe, which is now almost as rigid as Stalin's world policy was.

Furthermore, there were also hints that the offer for Germany would eventually be followed by a tempting offer to the Japanese. This second offer would have been aimed to induce Japan to accept a neutral status, like that proposed for Germany.

Acceptance of these offers would have had [illegible] have meant the retreat of American forces both from Japan and from Germany. And this would have knocked the whole existing structure of American strategic planning into a cocked hat.

The events of the past week have affected the new trend of Soviet policy in two quite different ways. On the one hand, the release of the North Korean prisoners radically alters the terms of the bargain that had been all but signed and sealed at Panmunjom. Maybe President Syngman Rhee's government can be brought back under control. Maybe the prisoners can all be rounded up again. But it hardly seems likely, and so the truce-price has been materially raised for Moscow and Peking.

On the other hand, the Berlin riots must certainly have caused second thought in the Kremlin about the crucial policy of loosening the screws a few turns.

Soviet world policy is directly involved in this question. Moscow cannot possibly make a convincing offer of German unification, against a background of wholesale executions and ruthless repressions in the Soviet zone of Germany. If the Stalinist rigidities are reintroduced in Germany, they are likely to be reintroduced everywhere, in which case there will be no heavy call upon the limited ingenuity of Western leadership.

Stewart

But if Moscow does not reintroduce the old repressive policy in Germany, and if the Korean truce talks are not broken off again, it will be very clear indeed that the masters of the Kremlin mean to carry through on their new policy. In short, the events of this [illegible] have been a decisive test of the changed Soviet trend. If the change proves to be real, American policy is going to require rather hasty re-examination.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Alberta Oil Wells Set Week's Record With 230,553 Barrels

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta's 4,023 oil wells produced a record 230,553 barrels daily during the week ended June 15, the petroleum and natural gas conservation board announced Monday.

By coincidence, the previous production record was set during the corresponding week one year ago, when 3,125 wells turned out a daily average of 217,513 barrels.

Redwater again led field production with an average of 68,198 barrels a day coming from its 926 wells, an increase of 17,499 barrels daily compared with the previous week.

Leduc-Woodbend followed with 64,014 barrels, an increase of 10,043. In third place was Bonnie Glen with an average of 13,916 barrels daily.

The previous week's production was again amended by the conservation board to 195,745 barrels daily against the estimated figure of 191,396.

SUBWAY PROJECT APPROVED

MEDICINE HAT (CP)—A city application for approval of construction of a dual subway project, to cost $370,000, has been granted by the Board of Transport Commissioners at a special sitting at Ottawa, it was learned Monday.

The order was issued in two sections. One approved a $270,000 traffic subway at First Street, the board to bear 40 per cent of the cost from the grade crossing fund and the remainder to be borne equally by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the city.

MERCY FLIGHT

EDMONTON (CP)—An army private and a civilian employed by the army arrived here Monday night aboard an RCAF Dakota aircraft following a flight from Fort Nelson, in northeastern British Columbia, where they were injured Sunday in a road accident.

The soldier was identified as Pte. E. Richards of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, who had been stationed at Fort Nelson exactly a year. His home town was not immediately available.

Hospital authorities would not identify the civilian.

Details of the accident were not available.

ALBERTA MINERS VOTE

CALGARY (CP)—More than 6,000 Alberta coal miners will vote Wednesday on acceptance or rejection of the majority award handed down by a government arbitration board last month.

THE ARTS CENTRE

By PETE LOUDON

Non-Jury Exhibition

Lovers of the conventional are beating paths to the Arts Centre this week.

Hanging until July 6 is the widest display of faithful reproduction of beauty that has been seen there for some time.

There are houses that can almost be lived in, boats that could be sailed toward blue horizons and dogs that look real enough to scratch.

Only one or two bold abstractionists are represented.

The current show is the annual non-jury exhibition, contributed to by amateurs mostly, from all over Vancouver Island. Like Gertrude Stein they seem to say," . . . a rose, is a rose, is a rose,—and it should darn well be painted that way."

So the chances are that when judges (who are the people who visit the show and mark ballots,) name a winner, it will be for a painting of the old school.

This being Coronation year, some of the contestants are banking on royalist Victoria. A night street scene of flag-decked Douglas Street might well take the top prize. There is also a portrait of Her Majesty and a third depicting an angel-shaped cloud gently placing a crown on the head of lofty Everest.

Last year's non-jury show winner, Dr. A. D. Bechtel will be a popular contender. He has two scenes entered. Some visitors have rated them both as superior to his earlier winner.

In a sense it is unfortunate that there aren't more of the avant garde represented in the show. Were there as many modernists as realists, the vote of the public might tell an interesting story and help settle the question of what art the public wants most to see.

IN HOLLYWOOD

By ALINE MOSBY

The Glenn Miller Story

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A pretty, blonde mother of suburban San Marino has the world's most complete collection of Glenn Miller records, but she said today she doesn't play them often.

"I bring them out once in a while when people ask, but I don't play them myself. They bring back memories," smiled Mrs. Glenn Miller.

She added, "It's better not to look back."

Other memories returned today for the widow of the famed bandleader who vanished on an air force mission seven years ago. She visited Universal-International studio where Jimmy Stewart (in horn-rimmed glasses) and June Allyson are portraying the Millers in "The Glenn Miller Story."

"Oh, I was in the doghouse in Hollywood for years because I wouldn't agree to a movie," she said in her first interview. "I was afraid they'd just do the music and lose track of what a wonderful man he was.

"But producer Aaron Rosenberg and director Tony Mann wanted to do him as a man, with the music woven in. I didn't want it jivey."

Producer Rosenberg has been snowed under with anxious letters from Jazz fans around the world who want to be sure their idol is immortalized on celluloid the way they like. The script and musical score to Mrs. Miller are "just wonderful."

Seven members of the original Miller band were rounded up for the picture and, with other musicians, they recorded the Miller arrangements of such favorites as "Moonlight Serenade" and "Tuxedo Junction."

"I remember when he first tried that new sound—with four saxophones and the clarinet, instead of the trumpet, in the lead," recalled Mrs. Miller. "I thought it was just bound to be wrong because the harmony came so close it hurt your ear.

"Jimmy's been taking lessons so he can fake the playing with a cork in the horn. He told me he thought he was getting good so he took out the cork. He played one line, and put it back in!" she laughed.

Friends of Mrs. Miller say for years she clung to the hope the musician would be found. Today she said: "There were reports for a while, four or five years ago. The war department investigated them all carefully.

"You have hope, yes, but," she shrugged, "It's been seven years.

"No, I won't remarry," she said. "I have two children, Steven, 10, and Jonni, 8. I'm bringing them up and that's my job."

Early Export of Alberta Gas Urged

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian Gulf Oil Co. estimates reserves in southern Alberta's Pincher Creek natural gas field at 3.1 trillion cubic feet, with 2.29 trillion feet available for marketing, and has called for export of natural gas "at the earliest possible date."

The company, in a brief submitted to Alberta petroleum and natural gas conservation board which is hearing applications for export permits, said the field would also yield 48,700,000 barrels of lighter, liquefiable hydrocarbons including natural gasoline, butane and propane and 11,500,000 tons of sulphur.

Canadian Gulf now controls approximately one-fourth of Alberta's proven gas reserves, the brief said.

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARIES:

Base Metals Make Good Gain; Western Oils, Industries Up

TORONTO (UP)—Base metals were star performers again today on Toronto Stock Exchange, Western oils and industrials edged higher but golds failed to join the rally.

Prices generally were firm toward the close of today's session.

Uraniums traded a wide list of issues at slightly weaker prices.

In their best rise in a week, base metals featured such winners as Steep Rock, Keymet, East Sullivan, Waite Amulet, Hudson Bay and Noranda. Gains ranged up to 45 cents.

In western oils Canada Southern, Federated Petroleum, Royalite and General Petroleum showed modest increases but Calvan and Poplar slipped.

Papers, refining oils, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials led the mild rally in industrials. Foods were a weak spot.

Golds mixed as seniors fell back but juniors and holding companies traded higher.

Canadian Issues Up at New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today, with strength in oil and Canadian issues the only feature.

Small advances were posted by most motor, aircraft, distiller, chemical, utility and television stocks. Mixed were rails, buildings, farm machineries and rubbers.

Canadian stocks were higher. Canadian Pacific and International Nickel each gained ⅛, Hiram Walker advanced ⅜ and McIntyre lost ½.

On the American stock exchange Giant Yellowknife and Royalite advanced ⅛ and ⅜ respectively.

Oils to Forefront

Oils held the spotlight in forenoon transactions on the Vancouver stock exchange today. Most oil issues showed signs of strengthening.

[illegible] bid, Charter 1.50-1.55, Federated 5.30 bid, Okalta 2.75 bid, Vantor Explorations 22-23.

Mines Advance

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market was steady in quiet afternoon dealings today.

Senior oils, beverages, carriers and banks were a little better while senior metals were off slightly.

Mines were better in light volume. East Sullivan added 40 cents, Anacon 30 cents and Preston 10 cents.

Bond Prices Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — Government of Canada issues held steady today on Montreal bond markets.

Provincial issues were a little better and the new Ontario Hydros were in good demand. The corporate market was a little firmer.

Up to 150% More Spark Plug Life!

Cars seldom retained their original pep prior to Shell's discovery of TCP! The natural by-products of fuel combustion accumulating on spark plugs and in combustion chambers caused spark plugs to misfire and the fuel mixture to pre-ignite—especially when accelerating, hill-climbing or touring the open highway.

TCP in Shell Premium Gasoline overcomes this power-wasting, fuel-wasting condition. It prevents these deposits from causing misfiring and pre-ignition. This results in an increase of up to 15% more power and 150% more spark plug life and greater gasoline mileage, too!

New and old engines benefit from this fast-acting gasoline additive . . . so get Shell Premium with TCP.

City Laundryman Gets High Honor

Hugh R. Stephen, vice-president and general manager of New Method Laundries Ltd. here, is the only Canadian invited to address American Institute of Laundering's annual convention in Los Angeles in October.

He will speak on "Personnel Relations."

In his audience will be several thousand laundrymen from all over the world.

Besides taking leading part in the laundry industry here and elsewhere, Mr. Stephen is active in community affairs here, being vice-chairman of Victoria Town Planning Commission.

CREDITMEN ASK ABBOTT'S ADVICE

Concerned about sharp growth of instalment-buying hereabouts, Victoria Credit Grantors' Association has appealed to Finance Minister D. C. Abbott for guidance.

The creditmen are worried about the amount of domestic buying being financed by instalment credit, and they fear they see signs of a return of the unhappy "dollar-down, dollar-a-week" philosophy.

In one sense, the developing consumer-credit situation across the Dominion—in fact, across this continent—is part of the historic dispute between sales managers, whose god is volume of sales, and creditmen who have the task of collecting the book value dollars supposedly represented by these sales.

That part of the problem can be resolved within the individual business.

But in the wider aspect the credit men's day-to-day operations are interwined in the nation's economic policy. Naturally, they'd like to have spelled out to them just what Finance Minister Abbott would like them to do about the situation. Careful "hints" into which several meanings can be read are hardly enough.

So, Victoria Credit Grantors' Association will "take the bull by the horns" and will ask Mr. Abbott to reveal his opinion about the current consumer credit position and to say if he has any specific recommendations to make to credit granters.

Canada's banks are keeping pace with the dominion's expanding economy. L. G. Gillett of Toronto, retiring president told Canadian Bankers' Association's annual meeting last week. During the last 10 years more than 700 branches had been opened by Canada's chartered banks, staffs had been increased from 26,000 to 48,600, and the number of bank accounts from 3,750,000 to 9,000,000 or "one for every adult Canadian," Mr. Gillett said.

Fear Grows in Europe U.S. Will Return to High Tariff Policy

By FORBES RHUDE
CP Business Editor

Thoughts from Vienna and London:

European countries fear, as Canada fears to some extent, that the United States will return to a policy of higher tariffs which will make it almost impossible for other countries to trade with her.

They feel, indeed, as Canada feels, that the United States, despite concessions of recent years, still maintains, in one way or another, barriers which make it impossible for other countries to trade with her to the extent needed for healthy world trade.

Their hope has been that the United States will recognize that she must give other countries a chance to sell in her markets, so that they may pay for what they want to buy from her, rather than receive handouts.

These feelings are summed up in the phrase, "trade, not aid."

In this situation, current strong expressions of protectionist sentiment in the U.S. are alarming in Europe. They are alarming too, to those Americans who have a clear view of the position of the U.S. in the world of today.

Unfortunately, for one reason or another, an unflattering picture of the United States exists in the minds of many Europeans, even when they pay tribute often grudgingly to the help she has given to them. In this situation, they find it easy to believe the worst of her.

Things which may appear deplorable to Canadians, although merely passing phases in the American scene, tend, in Europe, to appear as expressions of the real American thinking.

Communist propaganda has its part in this, but American facility for ruffling national pride also is a factor. Additionally, perhaps, a "rich man" (and that is the category into which the United States and Canada fall in European eyes) cannot expect to be overly beloved.

CAN'T WITHDRAW

The United States has at last, with some regrets, given up any thought that she can again withdraw from the world in a political sense. It seems inevitable that the hard facts of life in today's world will teach her that neither can she maintain herself in economic isolationism.

So far in the postwar world, she has made her major economic contributions to needy countries by outright gifts and, to some degree, with technical advice.

The gift phase may have to continue for a while, but, at best, it is an expedient, and is galling to the national pride of the recipients.

However, in the origins of the gift phase, one may find support for a belief that the United States will yet show real leadership in the freeing of world trade.

In June, 1947, the then secretary of state, Gen. George Marshall, made the speech which led to the Marshall Plan or European recovery program.

This program has been recognized as an act of statesmanship, generosity and enlightened self-interest which would have seemed an impossible product of the United States of pre-war years.

Congress and the American people accepted the vast expenditures of the program because the condition of the world demanded it and because the alternative was probable collapse of Western Europe and probable entrenchment of Communism.

When the United States sees the need for the freeing of trade as clearly as she saw the need for the Marshall Plan, experience of recent years gives hope that she will rise to the occasion.

Some of the few recent reassurances given to Europe in this regard were those given by American delegates to the recent congress in Vienna of the International Chamber of Commerce, when they came out wholeheartedly in favor of lower American trade barriers.

Dodgers Fall Back; Giants Face Cards

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Baseball fans probably witnessed the finest pitching of the season here last week during the Tyee home stand against Calgary and Edmonton. And the big man was Bill Prior who won two games.

Prior must be regarded as one of the best pitchers in the league at the present time as in his last 24 innings, two starts and one relief job against Vancouver, he has given up but two runs.

Walker

Though manager Bob Sturgeon and his Edmonton Eskimos were the victims of one of Prior's gems, the former Victoria mentor had nothing but praise for the slim right-hander. And oddly enough, it will be recalled that it was Sturgeon, when managing the Tyees in the latter half of the 1951 season, who showed the most confidence of any Victoria manager in the local product.

A chance remark overheard at that time in a pre-game discussion between Sturgeon and Bill Schuster, then manager of the Capilanos, went something like this:

"I got a young fellow here who's been stuffing the ball down everyone's throats; why he hasn't been used more I don't know?"

That fellow was Bill Prior and it was during the closing stages of the 1951 season that Sturgeon saw Prior, the [illegible] opportunity which it had appeared had been denied him previously.

Even this year, Prior, who made such a good showing at the Portland training camp and possibly could have had a coast league contract except for the fact that business commitments in the city were of more value that what Portland was prepared to pay, was only used sparingly at the start.

Following the Tyees' 2-1 win over Edmonton here last week Sturgeon had this compliment for Prior (in baseball language it's tops):

"Prior—he's one hell of a pitcher."

Relieving the Tension

An incident which occurred here early in the season probably describes best the coolness and stoic disposition of Prior when under fire.

Catcher Milt Martin had been removed for a pinch hitter and Sam Brusa had been banished from the game for throwing his mask on the ground in disgust at a strike call, necessitating regular third baseman Don Pries taking over the catching duties.

Prior was protecting a one-run lead at the time, Spokane having runners on first and second and one out in the ninth inning.

When Pries and Prior met on the infield grass to discuss strategy, the decision was that only fast balls would be used.

Pries let a couple slip from his hands, one going for a passed ball which put the tying and winning runs in scoring position.

This called for another meeting and when Pries apologized for his act, Prior had this comment for his off-hours fishing partner.

"Gaff it, you whoosit; gaff it."

★ ★ ★

Box-seat patrons who wondered at the time why Pries was smiling when he returned to the catcher's lines, now know. The situation was serious, but not too serious that Bill couldn't relieve the tension with a wise crack. A couple of fast balls later and the threat had ended and Prior had preserved the triumph.

Prior's earned-run average at the present time is a commendable 2.60, fourth best in the league.

There is little doubt that he now is the No. 1 man on the Tyee staff and could conceivably be one of the league's top winners.

Kiner-Sauer Home Run Power Booms

Leo Durocher's Giants, finally exhibiting signs of arousing from their spring doldrums, move in on St. Louis Cardinals tonight for their second straight showdown series with a first-division club.

Flushed with success after gaining two victories and a tie out of a four-game series with the league-leading Milwaukee Braves, New York has a chance to prove to its followers that it may yet fulfill pre-season predictions.

Leo's lads generally were picked to finish no worse than third. But most of their battling so far has been to keep up to the .500 mark and somewhere within striking distance of the first division.

The Giants will be meeting St. Louis during one of the Cardinals better periods. In the current home stand the Cards have won six out of seven including a 6-3 verdict over Pittsburgh Monday night.

DODGERS LOSE AGAIN

Brooklyn continued its miserable western trip with a 9-4 loss to Chicago Cubs while in the American League Cleveland Indians won a pair of 5-2 contests from Washington Senators. The rest of the clubs in both leagues had the day off.

The Dodgers' loss shoved them three full games behind the Braves. Cleveland trails New York Yankees by 10½ games.

STALEY WINS 10TH

Gerry Staley joined the so-far select group of 10-game winners as he checked the Pirates on eight hits. Enos Slaughter drove in three runs with a double and another one with a single.

The tremendous home run threat the Cubs were hoping for when they bought Ralph Kiner to team with Hank Sauer worked against the Dodgers.

Frank Baumholtz and Dee Fondy singled in the fourth and Kiner delivered them with his 15th homer. The crowd was still cheering when Sauer promptly parked his 10th circuit blast into the same section.

Canadian Golfers Win

The Champ and a Hopeful Admirer

"Nothing to it," comments Gerry Smith, left, to Archie McMillan after being awarded the Norman F. Hall Trophy, emblematic of the Graphic Arts golf championship. Smith won the tourney title with an 84-20—64 at Colwood Club Sunday. At the other end of the list of 84 entries was McMillan, who took the most blows, 149. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Miss Stewart, Babs Davies Advance in British Amateur

PORTHCAWL, Wales (UP)—Three Canadian players gained the fourth round of the British Women's Amateur golf championship today and one Canadian was eliminated in second-day action at the Royal Porthcawl course.

Marlene Stewart, the 19-year-old Canadian champion, coasted into the fourth round with a 6 and 5 triumph over Elsie Lever of Wales. Miss Stewart was 6 up at the turn.

Ada MacKenzie of Canada upset Jeanne Bisgood, former English champion, 4 and 3; Barbara Davies of Canada eliminated Mrs. Brock Park of Bermuda, 4 and 3, and Mary Gay of Canada was ousted by Jean Donald of Scotland, 5 and 4, in other third-round contests.

Cheered by her teammates, Miss MacKenzie won the ninth and 11th holes with putts of eight and 10 feet, respectively, for a 2 up lead over Miss Bisgood which she never relinquished.

TOUGH FOE

Miss Gay ran into Miss Donald, an experienced international player, on one of her better days. The Scottish star rolled up a commanding lead on the first nine holes, coming in a three under par 34 which included three birdies. Miss Donald swept the first three holes.

NBA Seeks Elimination Heavy Bout

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—The National Boxing Association stood firm today on its demand that Ezzard Charles and Roland La Starza fight it out for the right to challenge Rocky Marciano's heavyweight boxing crown.

NBA president George A. Barton said he has received letters and telegrams from NBA executive members "protesting against the proposed plan of Jim Norris . . . to give La Starza the preference over Charles as an opponent for Marciano for September."

Norris is president of the International Boxing Club.

Barton added the NBA's own attitude is that "Charles deserves the preference over La Starza as Marciano's next opponent."

CLIMAX GREAT DRIVE

Gasmen Take Softball Lead

Capital City 8, Navy 3

Capital City Servicemen climaxed a mid-season drive Monday night at Central Park by taking over first place in the Senior A Men's Softball League.

They defeated Navy 8-3 for their ninth win in their last eleven games. They have only been beaten once in that time, an extra-inning game with Chinese Students. The other game ended in an 11-inning 4-4 tie with Butler's Aces.

Excellent pitching and the ability to put together big innings have carried the Gasmen to first place, and Monday's game was no exception.

Starter Ab Wiebe of the winners had a no-hitter going for five innings, but coach Joe Bryant decided to rest him and sent in Ken Gunter to finish up.

Wiebe allowed three runs without the aid of a hit.

Mickey Smith finally got the first hit of the game for Navy when he hit a change of pace pitch thrown by Gunter to lead off the seventh. In the eighth Roy Jones dropped in a bloop single for the second blow.

Pinch-hitter Norm Haskell singled in the ninth and Boettcher picked up the fourth hit of the night with a clean single to left field.

EARLY LEAD ENOUGH

Gasmen scored enough runs in the second inning to win the game when they cracked out six hits, four in a row, including a triplet by Bryant, and scored four runs.

They added two more in the third off Navy's newcomer, Fred Jones, and scored their final two runs off John Brown in the sixth inning.

Tonight at Central Park Chinese Students will be out to halt a three-game losing streak that has seen them lose the league lead. They meet third-place Butler Bros.' Aces. Game time is 6.45.

Only Browning Missing As Irish Host Nanaimo

Victoria Shamrocks will be seeking revenge as well as a six-point lead on the Intercity Lacrosse League field when they host Nanaimo Native Sons at Memorial Arena, Wednesday night. The Rocks' faces are still red from the 13-9 defeat Sons handed them Saturday night in the hub city.

Coach Red McMillan announced his line-up today, which includes the return of all but Archie Browning. His three forward walls will be at almost full potency with Al Gill filling for Browning on the Whitey Severson, Larry Booth line.

Big Tommy Druce will move back to defense with youthful Bill Bamford. Rookie Dave Unwin will tend the nets with Jim Hetherington in reserve.

The line of Jackie Northup, Sarge Sammartino and Arnie Ferguson will be back together on the second unit, while the third line will find Bob Monaghan, Duff McCaghey and Harry Irwin together.

Besides Druce and Bamford the Rocks will have Jack Thompson and Bob Anderson working together on defense.

Jokers Stop Foul Bay

Jokers and Foul Bay of the Senior "B" Lacrosse League resumed their old rivalry last night with Jokers posting their first win by topping the Bays 10-8.

Three straight goals by Jokers at the end of the third period put them in front to stay. Wilf Scott and Roy Douglas paced the winners with three goals and an assist each.

In the junior preliminary Oak Bay downed Esquimalt, 10-3, behind the great goal tending of 14-year-old Fred Wooster, who stopped 18 of 21 shots hurled at him.

Inter-League Games Proposed for Majors

WASHINGTON (AP)—There has been much agitation of late about breaking up the Yankees, forming new major leagues, moving present franchises and doing about everything but establishing a handicap system in baseball.

It has remained for a gentleman named Buck Howard to come up with the soundest suggestion yet.

As Mr. Howard sees it, baseball is in a rut. The same teams come to town every year with little variation. His departure from tradition would mix up the two loops so they play each other every year.

For a one-team town like Washington, this indeed would provide a shot in the arm for failing gate receipts and at the same time bring fresh teams for the fans to see.

Even if the New York Yankees were running away with the American League race, as they seem to be doing at the moment, there would be tremendous interest in the other teams.

Of course, the two-team cities wouldn't go for the novelty. In New York, you can see the Dodgers, Giants and Yankees any time they're at home, and one of the three is always there. But for thes cities, there would be the angle of competition.

How is all this going to work? Each team in each league now plays 22 games, 11 on the road and 11 at home, with every other opponent.

An amendment to Mr. Howard's plan would be to schedule 14 games between opponents in each league. Milwaukee thus would play seven home games against the Yanks, and seven road games.

A variation would be to have American League teams play each other 16 games, eight home, while six games (three home and home) would be played with seven teams of the National League. The one left out could be played the following year, and so on.

NEGRO PLAYERS TARGETS?

WIL Prexy Scores Salem Accusation

VANCOUVER (CP)—League president Bob Brown said Monday he hasn't heard about an accusation that Western International League pitchers are throwing purposely at the Salem team's three Negro players, Connie Perez, Milt Smith and Les Witherspoon.

President Bruce Williams of the Salem club said the three players are getting hit by pitched balls so often that it can't be accidental.

"To me it hardly sounds possible," Brown said.

"Our umpires would see that it was stopped immediately if it was happening."

"I'm a little bit surprised to hear about it without any notification first to our office . . . the right place to make such a protest, if it is a legitimate protest," Brown said.

"And if it's put on to swell gate receipts—a publicity stunt—then it is the worst kind of publicity anyone could possibly have."

SENIOR BALL BILLED TONIGHT

Weather permitting, play in the Senior Amateur Baseball League will resume tonight at Royal Athletic Park, with Central Cartage meeting Eagles at 6.30.

The league, forced to postpone a good percentage of contests so far this season, has 12 games scheduled in the next two weeks.

'FLYING PLUMBER' POPULAR

Cooper Top Driver

BY RON COULTER

Dave Cooper, voted most popular race car driver at Shearings Speedway last season, is piling up points in both the big car and stock car divisions this year and could easily take the track aggregate point championship title in both sections.

For any driver, racing fans will quickly admit, this would be quite an accomplishment.

Dave, although known around the local track as a veteran, never really got his start driving in big meets until after the war in 1946. He first started race car driving in 1939.

The first big race he ever drove in, Dave laughingly recalls, was at Yakima in 1946 when he placed second, finishing the event on a flat tire.

Since then it has been an upward surge for the "flying plumber." Racing on both sides of the border he placed third in aggregate point totals for the Northwest big cars in 1950. He was second to track champion Bob Simpson at the Cobble Hill cutoff oval last season.

Dave's driving can be likened to that of a horse racing jockey, in the respect that if he can see an opening, large or small, which he calculates his car will go through, then he goes through. Very few times he has been wrong in his judgment during the past two seasons.

In Saturday's meet both his big car and stocker were put out of action. The stock car was forced to take to the pits with a broken front axle and his No. 2 big car was incapacitated with a broken transmission when he locked wheels on the No. 2 turn with Bob Simpson. However, it is expected both cars will be running, mainly through the efforts of mechanic Bill Walters, for the next show.

Cooper's new car, which will be the lightest and should prove the fastest big car to hit the local scene in many years, is still in the making. With work being done on his other two cars this week, appearance of the new car at the track will be delayed that much longer.

With his high competitive spirit, fans have come to look on the colorful Cooper for a top performance and the "flying plumber" rarely disappoints.

Newsies Come Close, Hand Students Scare

Grand Spot must have taken its upset 7-3 victory over league-leading Tillicums in the Senior "B" Softball League last Friday seriously.

Monday night at Heywood Avenue Park the Newsies continued their change of form and gave Chinese Students their biggest scare of the season before bowing, 7-5, to the Student club.

Behind, 4-1, at the end of six innings, Newsies notched one counter in the seventh before allowing Students three runs in the top of the ninth. Even at that the last-place club came close to pulling the contest out of the fire.

Hurler Fred Eggleton finally put the cap on a ninth inning uprising, which netted Grand Spot three runs, to pick up the win for Students.

Loss was Newsies 14th against one victory.

HOGAN ARRIVES AT CARNOUSTIE FOR OPEN

PRESTWICK (AP)—Ben Hogan landed in Scotland today after a trans-Atlantic flight to prepare for the one major golf tournament he has never won—the British Open. He's never tried it before.

It was a tanned and smiling Hogan who told those who came to greet him that he had made the trip for three reasons: "Everyone back home wanted me to, this year the British Open doesn't interfere with anything I wanted to play in America and because I am told Carnoustie is one of the finest courses in the world."

The Open will be held on the testing Carnoustie layout July 6-10.

SOLONS THREATEN BRONCS

Eskimos Club Tyee Pitchers

Edmonton 11, Victoria 5

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos opened their final home stand of the first half of the Western International League schedule before 2,155 fans here Monday night with a resounding 11-5, 18-hit baseball victory

Ray McNulty hurled steady, seven-hit ball for his seventh triumph against two defeats.

Every member of the Eskimos shared in the heavy barrage against three Victoria hurlers. Bob Sturgeon and Don Herman showed the way with three hits apiece. Two of Sturgeon's blows were doubles.

Zeb Walker, starting on the mound for Tyees, was shelled in the fourth inning, and his successor, Bill Bottler, struggled through until he was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Pete Younie finished up for the Tyees, allowing one run in the ninth inning, his first appearance for the Victoria team since being signed as a free agent.

Milt Martin and Dwane Helbig each got two hits for the Tyees. Lu Branham drove in two Tyee markers in the sixth with a double.

Victory moved Edmonton to within two and one-half games of the league-leading Lewiston Broncs.

SENATORS NEAR LEAD

Salem Senators, riding the crest of a six-game Western International Baseball League winning streak, will try for No. 7 tonight while looking to tail-end Yakima for the assist that would put them into the first place berth occupied by Lewiston's Broncs since the start of the season.

The schedule kept Lewiston idle Monday night but sent Salem against the Indians at Spokane. Senators cashed in on the Broncs' night off, moving to within half a game of the top spot with a 7-5 victory over the Spokaneites.

They'll play again tonight while the Broncs, who have lost their last five games including four to Salem, will try to recoupe at Yakima.

In other contest, Calgary shaded Vancouver, 5-4, in 11 innings, 11-5.

FAVORITES ADVANCE

'Little Mo' In Net Win

(From UP and AP Dispatches)

Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly, 18-year-old queen of women's tennis, opened her bid for a second straight Wimbledon title today with a 6-0, 6-0 victory over Kora Kilian of South Africa.

Doris Hart, the 1951 champion from Coral Gables, Fla., who is expected to team with Miss Connolly in the eighth straight all-American women's singles final in the championships, joined the champion in the third round with a 6-0, 6-0 triumph over Janet Morgan of Britain.

Miss Connolly, seeded first, and Miss Hart, seeded second, drew first-round byes.

A crowd of almost 20,000 was on the all-England club grounds as the U.S. stars advanced without the loss of a game.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., continued the American victory march with a 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Georgie Woodgate of Britain in a first-round match.

Barbara Scofield Davidson of Milwaukee, Wis., became the fourth U.S. winner, eliminating S. L. Fisher of Australia, 6-2, 6-1, in the first round.

Baba Madden Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., also gained the second round by defeating Pat Harrison of Britain, 8-6, 6-3.

The tournament's first surprise occurred Monday when Tony Mottram, Britain's No. 1 Davis Cup ace, lost to Hugh Stewart, six-foot American playing in his first Wimbledon tournament, in an energy-sapping five-set duel, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Ken Rosewall of Australia, seeded No. 1, led the big-timers' victory parade. The 18-year-old Australian appeared almost nonchalant as he brushed aside Michael Davies, a 17-year-old Welsh youth who hitch-hiked to the tournament, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Lewis Hoad of Australia, seeded No. 6, polished off Bill Seymour, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5, after snuffing out a rally by the South African in the third set.

Other highly regarded players to advance were Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, No. 2; Mervyn Rose, left-handed member of Australia's delegation, No. 3; Jaroslav Drobny, the self-exiled Czech now playing for Egypt, No. 4; Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., No. 5, and Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., No. 7.

Goodman Threatens Vernon's Bat Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Versatile Billy Goodman of Boston Red Sox is pressing Washington's Mickey Vernon for batting honors in the American League.

Goodman, who performs equally as well at first base, or in the outfield, went on a batting spree last week that lifted him into the runner-up position with a .327 mark. Vernon leads the loop with .333. Figures include Sunday's games.

The Boston handyman gained 25 points as he went 12-for-27, a .447 pace. Goodman won the batting crown in 1950 with .354.

Vernon regained the top spot from Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees, who fell to third with .326. Vernon, second last week, lost three points by going eight-for-26. Mantle collected seven hits in 30 trips as his average suffered a 14-point decline.

Boston's Tom Umphlott advanced to fourth place at .321, went 14-for-28 and boosted his average 33 points. Red Sox teammate George Kell lost 15 points and dropped from third to fifth with .320.

In the National League, Red Schoendienst of St. Louis Cards has moved back into the lead with .344. Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson is on his heels at .342.

Moore Meets Maxim in Title Bout Wednesday

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—It took 16 years for Archie Moore to achieve the goal of a world champion in boxing, and the 36-year-old craftsman from California doesn't intend to surrender the title he holds as king of the light-heavyweights in his 15-round fight with Joey Maxim Wednesday night.

Moore has seen enough of the fight game from the lower ranks. It was a long, bitter and often frustrating path he trod coming up.

When he got his chance he made the most of it. This was in St. Louis last December when he handed the champion, Maxim, an artistic lacing in 15 rounds.

The bout is to be televised nationally, CBS network. It will not be broadcast.

In a special aftermath 10-rounder, Rex Layne, Utah's heavyweight hope meets Billy McClure, California heavyweight.

Promoters predicted a turnout of 10,000 to 12,000 in the open-air Ogden Stadium and gate receipts approaching $100,000. On top of this will be the television money of $50,000.

AS ANGLER, PAIGE ADMITS TO 47 YEARS

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Satchel Paige is 47 years of age. The ageless hurler said so himself here Monday when he appealed for a Pennsylvania fishing license.

In town with St. Louis Browns of the American League for an exhibition game, Satch decided to go fishing with a local TV commentator. He needed a license and to obtain it had to give his age.

Without cracking a smile, Paige said "47."

The clerk grinned and decided Paige was fitted ideally to become a tall-story fisherman.

Island Ace Enters Dominion Meet

The city of Cumberland will send its ace high school sprinter, Terry Tobacco, to Winnipeg, July 3 and 4, for the Canadian midget and juvenile track and field championships, Bruce Humber, local YMCA coach reported today.

The rangy 17-year-old youngster is expected to show up well in national competition. Humber reported that the high school speed merchant will work in Victoria and compete with the "Y" club this summer.

Tobacco is coming to town in order to take advantage of training under Olympic Games coach Humber and his assistant Harry Mitchell, one of the province's best sprinters a few years ago.

He will wear "Y" colors for the first time this week-end when the local squad travels to Kelowna for the annual Okanagan Valley championships. He will run the juvenile sprints and then hook up with Ted Whan, Jim Kennett and Bob Hutchison for the 880 relay.

Tobacco ran the 100 in 10.3 in Saturday's Island championships here and was timed in 23 seconds flat for the 220. He is regarded as an outstanding prospect by Humber.

C (To out in time)

(A) "NEVER LET ME GO" (Capitol—This is a tale about a couple of boys trying to recover their wives from behind the Iron Curtain. It's outrageously preposterous. It couldn't happen. But even as you tell yourself that you sit back and applaud it happening.

Here's something about the story:

Despite the warning of the U.S. ambassador, American newspaper correspondent Philip Sutherland (Clark Gable) marries Marya Lamarkina (Gene Tierney), the Russian ballet dancer he fell in love with in Moscow 'way back in 1945. On their honeymoon in the Baltic seaport of Tallinn they meet Marya's best friend, Sventlana (Anna Valentine) and her British hubby, Sergeant John Denny (Richard Haydn).

A few days later Denny is deported from Russia and is forced to leave his wife behind. Shortly after that Philip is requested also to leave. By a ruse, Marya is restrained from joining her husband on the plane that takes him away.

Determined to get the gals back to the family hearth, Philip and Denny obtain a small boat armed with an old tank gun and persuades salty sailor Joe (Bernard Miles) to accompany them on a voyage to the Baltic. Despite storms, a wonderful drinking party with some Russians, they sail their small craft to a night rendezvous along the guarded coast. In the end Gable has to go ashore to bring the rescue off alone.

This isn't a great picture by any stretch of the imagination. But I enjoyed it tremendously. It is very funny, exciting and imaginative. Anyway, it's good to see Gable again.

33,000 Visit Arts Centre In 18 Months

Women's Committee Reports Progress

More than 33,000 visitors have called at the Greater Victoria Arts Centre since it took up residence at 1040 Moss Street a year and a half ago.

The figures were included in a progress report issued Monday by the women's committee to the Arts Centre.

The ladies also realized $1,400 during the last six months from an interior decorating tour through some of Victoria's finer homes and a summer ball at the centre.

From the proceeds the Kearley Gallery now has a new hardwood floor and a fully-equipped kitchen and ladies' lounge are underway.

AUXILIARY GALLERY

The women's committees also intends to refurbish the present board room so that it can be used as an auxiliary gallery when necessary.

Some of their funds will be spent for the advancement of art as well. At least one student who might otherwise never get the advanced training his work merits will be given classes this summer under instructor Jack Shadbolt. The student is a Chinese-Canadian youth who has been ill for a year.

Resurfacing of walls in the Kearley Galley and the Spencer Gallery between July 6 and 28 will necessitate their closing alternately.

OFF TO CONVENTION

Dennis Humphries, president of the Victoria Gyro Club, and Bill McColl, president of the Camosun Club, will leave this week for the International Gyro convention, which will be held in Vancouver Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The club's district convention will be held Wednesday.

CBC, Private TV Stations Study Hook-Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC and representatives of nine private television stations reached tentative agreement Monday on plans for developing a national TV network with both private and public stations as links.

A CBC spokesman said that while the meeting was mostly exploratory, tentative agreement on the principles of developing such a system was reached. Discussion on technical problems involved will be discussed at a meeting today.

At the meeting were spokesmen for private TV stations planning to open operations in Windsor, London, Hamilton and Sudbury, Ont.; Quebec City and Rimouski, Que.; Regina; Saint John, N.B.; and Sydney, N.S.

In a statement that followed Monday's meeting, the publicly-owned CBC said its Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto network will be extended later this year to some of these private stations through the use of kinescope—TV film—recordings and directly through additional microwave circuits as they become available.

Some of these licensed private stations "expect to be operating later this year as affiliates of the CBC TV network," the CBC said.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

By L. G. ROBINSON, DDS

Powerful Food Acids Start Decay

(This is the second of a series of articles prepared by the B.C. Dental Association as a public service. They will appear daily.)

Every tooth in the head first started from four or five tiny buds, quite separate from one another.

Gradually they grow together, so that they become joined in one mass as a fully formed tooth crown, before breaking through the gums.

If we look closely at the surface of a back tooth, we see that it is not flat. It has four or five high rounded points called cusps. In between the cusps are the crevices or valleys, which mark the places where the buds joined together to form the tooth crown.

You are one of the few fortunate ones if the buds that formed your teeth grew together perfectly. Most of us weren't that lucky.

When the buds do not join perfectly, the crevices between the cusps have tiny cracks, so small at first that they couldn't be seen with a powerful magnifying glass, but large enough to let the bacteria in that cause dental decay.

LIKELY PLACES

The bottoms of these crevices and the hidden areas where teeth touch one another are the places where decay is most likely to develop.

If these places are not kept clean, sticky, pasty deposits of sweet and starchy foods will collect there. These deposits will bring about the formation of acids that cause enamel to dissolve. Tooth enamel will resist the hardest of metal instruments, but it gives way easily before these acids.

Once inside the enamel, the germs that make acids and cause decay, work faster and easier in the softer centre of the tooth, where growing conditions are ideal for them, the enamel is neglected and decay undermines it so that, finally, the unsupported enamel breaks away.

In the next article we shall tell about the tiny germs that cause decay and how they work in the mouth and teeth.

(The B.C. Dental Association will be glad to receive questions on matters related to dental health. It cannot promise to answer all questions individually, but matters of general interest will be discussed in this column. Questions should be addressed to the B.C. Dental Association, care of this newspaper.)

Jury Calls for Safeguards After Fire Death

A rider to insure greater safety for power-saw handlers accompanied a verdict of accident by a coroner's jury Monday probing the death last Thursday of Gerard N. Raby, 24, of Leechtown.

The jury recommended that safety-type air valves should be made standard equipment on the gas tanks of all powered hand saws.

Raby's clothing caught fire while he was operating a one-man power chain saw at the Sooke Lake Lumber Co. mill last Wednesday. He died in Royal Jubilee Hospital at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Evidence was that the cap on the gas tank had no screw-cap air control valve. There was a hole bored in the cap. Witnesses thought that when Raby titled the saw to start it, the full tank leaked gasoline that got on his clothing, the backflash causing the fire.

Oke Bessman, company lumber inspector, said he saw the fire and went toward it.

He said he saw a man walking toward him — "a human torch, his clothing aflame from the knees up and flames shooting a foot above his head."

"He got past me, but I took my heavy mackinaw off and wrapped it around him from behind," said Bessman. The coat put out the fire.

Sylvio Raby, father of the dead man, was bitter about the fact the telephone available to summon an ambulance was three miles away.

Plan to Stimulate Creative Writing

A Writers' Workshop, designed to stimulate creative writing activities on Vancouver Island, will be held at Elan Centre, Cherry Point Road, Cowichan Bay, August 31 to September 7.

Dorothy M. Punderson, president of Elan, will sponsor the workshop, assisted by Yvonne H. Stevenson, a past president of the Vancouver Branch, Canadian Authors' Association.

The workshop is planned to promote study of sound, creative writing for today's markets, they report.

Special seminars will be devoted to a review of current trends and techniques, and to group discussions of problems, of interest, to the free lance writer.

Did You Ever See a Sheep with Messed-up Hair?

Nature was kinder to the sheep than to humans. She gave sheep hair that stays handsomely groomed naturally. The sheep is the only animal that grows hair—not fur—like humans. Yet it never uses sticky pomades, stiff lacquers or greasy dressings—not even a comb—to keep its hair neat. But the sheep is luckier than humans. Nature gave it LANOLIN to keep its hair radiant, soft and always in place.

Sheep Aren't the Only Ones with Naturally Groomed Hair

LANOLIN is the natural oil that most resembles the oil in your own hair, which most of us have washed away or dried-up by too many artificial treatments. Clear, greaseless NIL-O-NAL is the closest you can get to pure LANOLIN. NIL-O-NAL helps replace this vital oil, and leaves your hair naturally, neatly, smartly groomed without that plastered look. Give it a try today! Only $1.79 for 2 oz. jar . . . $3 for 4 oz. jar.

Brighter Future Seen For Boy, 4 and Sister, 2

Father and Friend Protect Children!

Last winter, a young father told a Confederation Man: "Fred, you know how much is left of my $5,000 income after payments on my house . . . food and clothing bills . . . and all the other expenses. How much protection can I afford for my family?"

"A lot more than you think, Jim," replied the Confederation Man. "We have a plan that, on your salary, will provide for your family $10,000 in cash at death . . . and $100 every month until your daughter is 21. Then, they'll receive another $10,000. In the event of death after your daughter is 21 this plan provides $20,000 in cash. That's enough to provide a brighter future!" That's how a Confederation Life Man helped one father protect his family. He can help you too!

School Child's Earnings Won't Reduce Allowance

Earnings of school children, irrespective of the amount, no longer have any effect on their eligibility fo family allowances, W. R. Bone, regional director, said today.

Under previous regulations a $35 per month limit was imposed. When part-time income exceeds that amount, the allowances were suspended.

"This is applicable only in cases of children attending school," Mr. Bone said. "When children have left school and accept any type of employment, their family allowances are discontinued immediately."

Other provisions of the new regulations require persons moving from one address to another to notify the regional office of the new address within 90 days.

It is also necessary to report the temporary absence from Canada of any child receiving allowances, if such an absence exceeds one month.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Miss Patsy Caldwell has honored Between Times with a brief note.

"I am sending you our eighth edition of The Tiny Times, publication of Cedar Hill-Doncaster schools. We hope you like it. We think this will be our last edition."

Well, Patsy, I do indeed like it, and I sincerely hope it will not be the last edition.

Tiny Times is too bright and refreshing a publication to go out of existence, even if you and the rest of the contributors are growing up.

I hope the students who follow you next year will continue Tiny Times, so we may be cheered by such literature as the following, by John Ball, Grade 5:

CALL OF THE WILDS

In the cool Alberta mountains,
Where the coyotes howl and bay,
Is the best place next to heaven,
The best folks always say.

With your head snugged in your pillow,
And your hound dog on the floor,
And the moon light beam on the trickling stream,
Soon makes you whistle and snore.

Then you wake up in the morning,
And grab your coat and hat,
Because you're going cougar hunting,
And what do think of that!

Then you saddle up the old gray mare,
And take the hound dog too.
Then you see that cougar run,
Faster than your horse will do.

Then you give up chase,
Cause this cougar is a bore,
[illegible]
And brings him to your door!

A Hank Snow recording of John's epic would be a cinch to make the Western Hit Parade.

David Porteus, Grade 2, reports on the ideal holiday: "When I was on my holiday, I found a deer skull. Then I got down behind a log and I scared my mother."

Mary Cuthbert, also of Grade 2, boils a heart-rending story down to just 21 words:

ME AND MY DOG

"Once I saw a little dog and he was sad just because a little girl would not take care of him."

I wish I had space to reprint all the contributions to the eighth edition of the Tiny Times.

But there's room for just one more, by Sanda Tribe, Grade 3, who is a comer in the short story field if I ever saw one.

A BAD LITTLE CAT

"Once upon a time there was a cat. He was always getting into mischief. One day he saw Anne's mother writing a note. She put it in the milk bottle. Father said: 'Is the cat out?' When pussy heard that he hid under the bed. They went on their holiday for a week. The cat came from under the bed, went to the door and read the note. 'Dear Mr. Milkman, do not leave any milk for a week.' The cat said; 'No milk, I will die of hunger if I have no food.'

"He saw a can of cat meat. He went to the drawer for the can-opener, but he saw a mouse. He chased the mouse down the hole, but didn't catch.

"So he put a firecracker down the hole. The end."

Goodbye to Old Victoria School

Scene above will be re-enacted many times over when Greater Victoria schools close for summer vacation at week's end, only in this case the farewell is final. Kingston Street School in James Bay, built in 1883, will not reopen in September. New Macdonald Park School will take its place. There will be bright, airy classrooms instead of dingy, dark ones for these Grade 2 pupils waving to teacher Amy Vye.

Girl Rescues Baby From Blazing Home

Irene Overy's Battle With Fire Unavailing as Gasoline Burns

Section of a frame house at 3130 Balfour was gutted by fire late this morning that caused an estimated $3,000 damage.

No one was hurt. Miss Irene Overy, 18, of the same address, taking care of nine-month-old Norman Anderson, spotted the fire soon after it started and quickly got the baby outdoors. She then ran to a neighbor's house to call the fire department.

Firemen got the call at 11.34 a.m. and had the fire under control in less than 20 minutes.

It is the rented home of Mrs. Wilma Anderson, who works for the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch.

Two other children of Mrs. Anderson, Wendy, aged four, and Tommy, five, were not in the house when the fire started.

Fire Chief Frank Briers said the fire "somehow" got started when a can of white gas ignited.

MOP HER WEAPON

Miss Overy said the first she knew of the fire was when she opened the back door and saw the porch on fire.

"I tried to put it out with a mop but it was no good," she said.

She "presumed" the gasoline, used for a Coleman cooker stove, and left on the veranda, had tipped over and was ignited by sun rays.

Flames quickly crept into the tinder-dry house, completely gutted the kitchen on the north side and climbed the wall to engulf the whole attic.

Bedrooms and a bathroom on the south side of the building escaped all but smoke damage. Firemen stopped the flames before they reached the parlor, next to the kitchen.

"Given another five minutes before we got there and the whole house would have been involved," commented one of the firefighters.

Civil Servants Talk Problems Of Personnel

Victoria men took a prominent part today in seminar sessions of the western regional conference of the Civil Service Assembly of the United States and Canada, now under way at the Empress Hotel.

They included Hugh Morrison, Robin L. W. Ritchie, A. G. Richardson, J. Meryl Campbell and David J. Slader, all of the B.C. Civil Service Commission; Walter Howard Forrest, deputy superannuation commissioner, B.C. government; W. James Williams, personnel officer, B.C. Forest Service; and A. C. N. Smith, personnel officer for the city.

Since the 125 delegates from B.C., western United States, Honolulu and Alaska are the men and women who hire, train and keep civil servants happy in their jobs, discussions were of personnel problems only.

Highlight today will be a cruise in adjacent waters aboard the RCN vessels Sault Ste. Marie and Antigonish from 6.45 to 9.30 p.m.

The two ships will leave the dockyard and are expected to circle the city's waterfront, to give delegates and their families a view of Greater Victoria from the Straits.

FUNERAL SERVICES were conducted at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel this afternoon for Miss Jean Porter, former head of the circulation department of Victoria Public Library. Miss Porter, daughter of the late Robert J. Porter, one-time mayor of Victoria and granddaughter of Robert Porter, who arrived here from England in 1851, died Saturday after a lengthy illness. She was an honorary member of the B.C. Library Association. Present and former associates of the library acted as pallbearers. They were J. C. Lort, assistant librarian; Alan Husband, Keith Littler, Denis Godson, William Kinsey and Garnet Webber.

'Mr. Tennis,' F. A. Jackson, Buried Today

The funeral of a man active in Victoria tennis circles for more than 30 years, was held today.

Frederick Arthur Jackson, 86, affectionately known to generations of sportsmen here as "Pop," passed away Saturday at the Veterans' Hospital.

Born in Cheadle, England, in 1867, Mr. Jackson came to Canad when he was 19 and settled in Alberta where he married. He moved to Duncan in 1905 and was predeceased by his wife in 1917.

He served overseas with the First Canadian Pioneers during the First World War, losing his oldest son who served with the 54th Battalion, CEF, at the same time.

He had been secretary of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club since his arrival in Victoria in the early '20s and worked diligently for the group until six weeks ago. In recent years he was often seen working in the club gardens.

Mr. Jackson was for many years book-keeper to the Dominion Import and Export Company here. He was active in many of the major tennis tournaments held in this city.

He was secretary of the St. John Ambulance here in 1942-47.

One son and one daughter survive. They are Miss Isabel Margaret (Peggy) Jackson of 2660 Currie Road, and Victor Lupton Jackson, Salt Spring Island.

Funeral services were conducted at Hayward's Funeral Chapel by Rev. Canon S. Ryall, followed by cremation.

"Amalgamation" will be the subject of Forrest L. Shaw, OBE, when he addresses the annual meeting of the Canadian Club, June 29. The meeting will be held in the Union Club at 8 p.m.

Navy Reserve's Expansion Aim

Commodore Adams Wants 20,000 Men In Readiness for Atomic Threat

After two months in his new position as Commanding Officer, Naval Divisions, at Hamilton, Commodore Kenneth F. Adams is more firmly convinced than ever that Canada's naval reserve training program must be intensified.

Here to address Kiwanis Club at noon today, the former Victorian believes the navy's reserve training also should be extended to air crew and aircraft maintenance.

"We have established a reserve squadron at Toronto," he said, "but that is only a small start. It is necessary to build up the navy's air strength; we must establish more reserve squadrons."

He mentioned Calgary as an ideal site for naval air training, but said it was unlikely a reserve squadron would be set up here.

Commodore Adams, who is responsible for recruiting and training of naval reservists in 22 divisions across Canada, visualizes an eventual reserve force of 20,000 men.

CURRENT OBJECTIVE

There are at present fewer than 10,000 reservists, and the current objective is 15,000.

"The exact number depends on the Department of National Defense 'Mobilization Day' plans," he said. "My staff is working with Ottawa to project the personnel needs for 'M' Day, and for the eight months following.

"We must be ready for 'M' Day. It is no longer good enough to say we'll lose all the battles but the last one. Under atomic warfare, we must be ready to win the first battle."

He pointed to the record of the Battle of the Atlantic, where "we took a licking from 1939 to 1943."

READY TO FIGHT

"In 1943, we were ready to fight a war and we began to win," he said. "This is the lesson, and I hope we have learned it."

Since taking over his new command, Commodore Adams has succeeded in establishing a sea-and-shore training base for reserves in Hamilton. At present, six Fairmiles are used for sea training, and he is trying to get nine new minesweepers.

Immediate plans for HMCS Malahat, the reserve division now based at Esquimalt, involve moving "into Victoria," he said.

Former headquarters on Esquimalt Road have been taken over for training of Wrens. Commodore Adams hopes to secure a building in downtown Victoria, to be more centrally located.

NEGOTIATIONS

It is understood negotiations are under way to have the Department of Transport Building, on Wharf Street, behind the old Post Office Building, transferred to the Navy for this purpose.

Commodore Adams told the Kiwanis Club of the need for trained men to man the highly-complicated ships now building. "The navy is building 14 modern destroyer escorts, 14 minesweepers, and converting 37 ships in the anti-submarine DE design," he said.

In an effort to make technical training available to more reservists, Commodore Adams has instituted correspondence courses, for which "drill" credits are given.

Two subjects—electricity and electronics—are already being studied by mail, more are being prepared, he said.

Commodore Adams will leave Victoria Friday with his wife and family, to take up residence in Hamilton. Until April, he was Commodore of Barracks, HMCS Naden.

Take Strike Vote

A strike vote was taken in the plants of Buckerfield's Limited here Monday but results won't be known before Wednesday.

The members of CIO United Packinghouse Workers requested the government-supervised vote after rejecting the majority award of a conciliation board calling for a 10-cent hourly wage hike on a two-year contract. The workers want 15 cents and a one-year agreement.

LONE MINISTER CARRIES WEIGHT

Agricultural Minister Ken Kiernan is practically a one-man government this week.

Trade and Industry minister Ralph Chetwynd next week will carry the load of government on his shoulders.

Most of the other ministers will be absent from the capital until July 3 because of holidays or a Social Credit national conference in Toroto June 26 and 27.

Historic Papers For Public View Ireland Reveals

Provincial archivist Willard E. Ireland, is arranging a special exhibit and ceremony for the unveiling of new-found historical documents which will arrive in Victoria shortly.

The papers include the original commission appointing James Douglas the first governor of the colony of British Columbia.

The commission was made in 1858, eight years before Vancouver Island and British Columbia were joined in one colony.

The papers are being brought home by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace. The papers were found, after years of search, in a London land and investment firm. The company discovered the papers in its strong room.

Altogether four documents have been brought to light. They are:

1. The commission appointing James Douglas as governor given by warrant under the Queen's Sign Manual, together with the manuscript record of the council at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, embodying the draft commission.

2. Instruction to James Douglas bearing the signature of Queen Victoria.

3. A letter, dated December 16, 1858, from Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton at Downing Street to Governor Douglas.

4. A letter addressed to Governor Douglas, upon his retirement, by various members of the Civil Service in B.C.

SUSPENDED OFFICIAL

of the $500 saving. That was the grader needed for the particular job.

"I made no effort to cover up what I'd done because I was sure I'd done right.

"If I hadn't done what I did, the company still would have got the contract because it had the grader desired by the forestry department. If I didn't take the action, then $500 would have been thrown away and the company would have made another $500 profit.

"If I had not saved the $500, I would also have been open for criticism.

"I was damned if I did, and damned if I didn't."

Mr. Smith declined to comment on whether he is going to take grievance procedure through the B.C. Government Employees' Association. He's going away for a week "to get away from it all."

Meanwhile Mr. Crowe is preparing his grievance action and it may go to the association today.

The association, at a Vancouver meeting Monday, decided to await the official complaint before swinging into action.

Grievance procedure will force an inquiry into the suspensions, but it will be a private inquiry.

Meanwhile, Oak Bay Social Credit Association is going ahead with plans for a closed meeting tomorrow night at St. Mary's Hall to discuss the suspensions, despite a request from provincial president John Perdue to cancel the meeting.

George Alexander, Oak Bay president, said Mr. Perdue phoned him from Vancouver Monday and asked him to cancel it.

"Many members demanded the meeting and we are holding it to explain our actions as members of the executive," Mr. Alexander said.

Shipbuilding Delay Excuse Said Poppycock by Agent

Department of National Defense explanations of shipbuilding delays are "so much poppycock" in the opinion of a prominent local union business agent.

Faced with the layoff since June 12 of 25 machinists from Yarrows Ltd. total force of 85, including helpers, J. A. Cornthwaite of the Machinsts, Fitters and Helpers Union No. 3 (CCL) placed the whole blame for delays in the minesweeper and destroyer escort program at the government's door.

When the union complained a few days ago, the following answer was received from the department: "The only delays we are aware of in our shipbuilding program are caused by delivery diffulties connected with technical instrument sub-contracts."

"This is so much poppycock," Mr. Cornthwaite said. "Prime requisites right now are drawings and main machinery. The whole fault lies in the department of defense production. It's just another bureau set up to spend money indiscriminately."

He quoted as follows from a Yarrows Ltd. bulletin:

"At the present time no work is being carried out on the 'Fraser' (Destroyer Escort No. 233). We are held up by lack of information, materials and equipment. Your management is using every effort to secure the information and materials so that we can make a start on this job, even in a small way, by the end of June.

"We could get along with the erection of superstructure and minor bulkheads, and get started on some pipe work.

"The electrical work on this vessel, which is a very large job, is held up by complete lack of information—we are pressing hard in this connection so that we can get started as soon as possible on this part of the work."

Lack of information and equipment has held the yard up on the minesweeper James Bay, according to the bulletin.

EASTERN ORDERS

Mr. Cornthwaite complained bitterly of the placing of orders for new designs in eastern Canada instead of the west coast.

"The last of first ships in naval construction always were built in Victoria during the war because of the speed of building," he said. "Now they are being built in the east, with the explanation that eastern yards are nearer to naval headquarters."

"The distance between Ottawa and Victoria hasn't increased since the war," he said.

Police Seek Pair Who Robbed Woman

Two men who are believed to have stolen $50 from a woman, and left her stranded by the side of the road, are being sought today by Colwood detachment, RCMP.

Mrs. Mary Rice, Duncan, reported to police she had left Duncan with two other women in a U-drive, heading down the Island Highway toward Victoria. They stopped at Goldstream, and two men offered to drive her to Victoria in their car so her companions could return the U-drive.

A short time later, the men said the car was stuck. Mrs. Rice and one of the men got out of the car to push; when she reentered the car, she noticed her purse had been opened, and $50 removed.

The driver denied knowing anything about the money. The other man said, "let's have nothing to do with him," and removed her suitcases from the car. Then he jumped in, and the two men drove off, leaving Mrs. Rice by the side of the road.

CITY SCHOOLGIRL SEES THE QUEEN

Royal Guards Carried Lunches in Bearskins

One of two Greater Victoria high school student guests at the Coronation, Bernice Perfect, continues her story in this fourth letter from London of the greatest adventure of her life.

By BERNICE PERFECT

London!

This is the great day. We got up at 3 a.m. and arrived at the Mall about 5.30. We had seats in the stands.

Bernice

Already the first aid workers were busy. A number of persons had to be carried out of the crowd on stretchers. The long wait through the night had been too much for them. It was a cold morning and periodically the rain came down in torrents.

At 10 a.m. the guards were in position along the route of the royal procession. I wondered why their busbies were so big. But that's where they carried their lunches.

One girl climbed a gate and perched atop a 20-foot lamp post. A policeman chased after her and tried to get her down, but she eluded him and refused to budge.

We could see Prince Charles and Princess Anne watching from the window of Buckingham Palace when the Procession came by at 10.30.

The packed thousands cheered. And in the pauses between parties on the march they had sung in spite of the rain. The color and splendor of this day can never be surpassed. It was like a living fairy tale to se the Queen go by in her golden coach with her Prince Charming. The bands played as they never played before.

We heard the radio broadcast of the Coronation ceremony right in the stands. Actually, we saw the sun only once today and that was durthe Anointing Ceremony. It burst out for a few minutes . . . long enough for the people to sing "Zadok the Priest."

At 4 o'clock we saw the Procession again on the way back to the palace.

At 7 p.m. we all trouped back to the auditorium at the camp and saw the film of the Coronation service on the television screen. We saw from the best point of vantage the crowning and anointing.

Then we saw Her Majesty come out on the balcony at the palace and touch the switch that lit up the city with a flourish of neon light. And fireworks exploded in the air in the images of the Royal Family.

This has been a day we shall never forget as long as we live.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3

Today we had the morning free. Some of us went to Madame Toussaud's world-famous waxworks by underground train. It was a wonderful sight, the figures were so lifelike. But I'm sorry I went into the Chamber of Horrors. It will probably give me nightmares. After that trying experience we went into the Hall of Mirrors, where we had a great laugh over our distorted figures.

At 4 p.m. we arrived at Canada House where a reception and tea were held. We shook hands with His Excellency the High Commissioner.

At 6.15 we had dinner in the restaurant of the Royal Festival Hall and then attended the Coronation concert.

This remarkable hall is sound-proofed and built in a large tank that floats on the Thames.

Tomorrow we visit Cambridge.

Cwacs Reunion Includes Banquet And Parade

OTTAWA (CP)—It was quite a week-end for the Canadian Army Corps Associations.

Some 400 of their members, to the skirl of the bagpipe, sat down to a reunion banquet last Saturday night and some 80 fell in Sunday to parade on Parliament Hill.

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, told them that reserve crews of CWACS are to be formed "in the near future" to man anti-aircraft defenses, and that there will be a nucleus of regular service women to give instruction.

The "mother" of the corps was there Saturday night. She is matron, one colonel, Elizabeth Smellie, whom the army borrowed from the Victorian Order of Nurses in 1940. Now, in her 60's and retired in Ottawa, she stood, white-haired and smiling, for the longest cheer of the evening.

Old friends met again after years.

Helen Brownlee, once a corporal, now working on medical records at Westminster Veterans' Hospital, London, Ont., and Mrs. Margaret Hawkes, Toronto, friends in the corps' first echelon into Europe in 1942, saw each other for the first time since a posting separated them in August, 1944.

"Just like old times," they said.

But it was not quite like old times. The spartan ugliness of the drill hall was camouflaged with flags and bunting; the generals stood while the privates remained seated, and less than a fifth of the corps' members wore uniform.

"Only those who can get into them wear uniforms any longer," they said.

Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, adjutant-general, gave the guest speech.

He sighted his target: "This Business of Communism." He identified it: "A creed more dangerous and just as monstrous as those of the Nazis and the Japanese." And he overwhelmed it with a swift blow from the rear: "Their biggest lie is that they are the revolutionaries and we are the reactionaries. It is nonsense. We are the revolutionaries. We are heir to the greatest revolution in human history."

"Personally, I am despondent about efforts to make peace with these people because peace is not in the Communist creed."

A pearl necklace to the member coming the greatest distance to the reunion was presented to Miss Doris A. Taylor, 35-year-old former lieutenant, now a secretary at Edmonton.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Keep an Eye on the Sky —Your Ceiling Will Lift

The other day an air line office reported, "I cannot promise anything now for that flight. The ceiling is closing in. I will call you. It may clear up soon."

I thought about that statement and it occurred to me that the ceiling often closes in on people even they are not considering an airplane flight. It is not always even a ceiling of grief or real trouble but is often made up of various discouragements and disappointments, of fears, of worries and tensions and strains, of complexity, of boredom and fatigue, of lack of love or lack of loving (I do not know which is worse), of daily routine, of no time alone in peace and quiet.

The ceiling then closes down as tight as a drum. It almost smothers us and we cannot sense the stars or the moon or the sunlight, much less see them. This is the time to remember that word from the airport, "It may clear up soon."

So long as we remain conscious of the fact that our individual flight is not the only one which is clouded or befogged for the moment, so long as we hold the air-minded hope that things will clear up soon, they will!

Sooner or later the breeze of enthusiasm and hope will blow the clouds away. Nothing ever remains the same, not the weather or our moods, our energy or our despair. It is comforting to know that the problems and pressures we have are universal, that we are not alone! No matter what your problem; someone has a worse one. You are better off always when compared to many others.

By this I do not mean to indicate that we should sit on our backsides with a smile on our faces, and fail to do what we can. We can be preparing for clear weather. We can oil up our engines and see that they do not rust because of our temporary depression. We can get our papers in order. After that we can wait with the assurance that the ceiling will lift sooner or later.

Everyone goes through hard times, and it seems that these often gang up on us, not one rainy day but many rainy days in succession. Do you know what this is? It is life happening to you just as it happens to every human soul. You are no different. Be thankful that you are alive and can feel life's impact. Keep your chin up and wait for the ceiling to lift. It always does!

AS WE LIVE

It Takes Drastic Means To Teach Tot Politeness

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

What can a mother do when she sees that her child's rudeness is making him unpopular? That is the question confronting the lady who writes:

Hurlock

(Q) "My son is eight years old. We have always put a lot of stress on good manners in our home and my son used to have very nice manners for a child. Now he is rude and discourteous to everyone, even his friends. I notice that the boys he used to play with don't play with him any more and I am sure his bad manners have something to do with it. When I talk to him about manners, all he will say is that manners are 'for sissies'. How can I convince him that he is wrong?"

(A) It is hard to convince an eight-year-old that he is wrong about anything because he is at the "know-it-all" stage. But convince him you must if you want to prevent him from losing his friends and gaining the reputation of being a "boor."

One of the best ways to do this is to refuse to allow him to go anywhere or do anything until he improves his manners. If you have guests, send him to his room and make him stay there.

Permit him to go to school and Sunday school, but require that he come home as soon as school is over. Don't allow him to go out to play with any of the boys, even those who are willing to play with him.

Don't take him anywhere or allow him to go out of the house alone, even to the movies. When he is rude to any member of the family send him to his room.

All of this may sound very drastic but it is essential to make a stubborn child who won't listen to reason see the light by drastic measures. He must learn that if he is going to live with civilized people he must behave in a civilized way. This means being polite, courteous and thoughtful of the feelings of other people.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Ruth Banner, John Poschner Exchange Wedding Vows

Tall baskets of summer flowers decorated the altar of St. Andrew's Cathedral for the wedding of Ruth Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Banner, of Shirley, VI, to John Henry Fredrick Poschner, 430 Boleskine Road, son of Mrs. Marie Poschner, Petersfield, Man. Father M. O'Connell performed the ceremony.

Cousin of the bride, Miss Terry French, sang "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register, and Miss M. McKay played traditional organ music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of tiered nylon lace with lily-point sleeves, and a coronet to hold her fingertip nylon veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

The overcall of one no-trump shows much the same sort of hand that you would need for an opening bid of one no-trump. In today's hand, South was a bit weak in spades, but his hand was otherwise ideally suited to a defensive overcall of one no-trump.

North responded exactly as though his partner had opened the bidding with one no-trump. He had a count of 11 points and expected his partner to have about 16 to 18 points. Obviously the total was enough to provide a play for game, and North wasted no time in reaching a game contract.

When West opened the ten of hearts, declarer stopped to plan to take four tricks in each red the play. It was obviously easy suit and the ace of spades for a total of nine sure tricks. Since, however, the hand was being played at a match point pair tournament, South was interested in making as many overtricks as possible.

Declarer therefore won the first trick with dummy's queen of hearts and immediately returned a low club from the dummy! Caught by surprise, East carelessly played a low club.

South played the queen of clubs, and was now sure of ten tricks. Actually, South was headed for 11 tricks.

Declarer merely rattled off his tricks in the red suits. By the time that South had reduced to two clubs and two spades in his own hand and also in dummy, East had been forced to reduce likewise to two clubs and two spades.

At this point South simply led a club and allowed East to take his two club tricks. East was then obliged to lead away from his king of spades, giving South the last two tricks with the queen and ace of spades.

There was no way for East to set the contract, but he would have fared better if he had taken the king and ace of clubs as soon as he was given the chance to do so.

After winning the second and third tricks with high clubs, East could have exited safely with another club, after which he could sit back and wait for a spade trick to be given to him.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S
ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1953

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Your mind is teeming with ideas for new undertakings but it would be wiser to complete commitments in work at present before dashing into unknown fields. Postpone action a while.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Money and other assets will not be available to you until you take care of long-range plan now in effect. Don't let eagerness to increase income distract you from this present work.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Confer with opponents, co-workers and associates, ironing out all differences. Keep yourself under perfect control; avoid argumentativeness.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Being all steamed up to get mountain of accumulated tasks out of the way is just what you need, as long as you perform duties rationally without alienating less energetic comrades.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Desire to have good time and to enhance your attractive [illegible] health treatments is O.K. In evening, entertain those you care for. Have a good time.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is a good day to clear out closets, drawers, cupboards so that there will be room for new, useful articles. Keep out of arguments with family.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—You can arrive at much better understanding with all those around you and gain co-operation for securing what you desire simply by being more direct and outspoken.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Apply yourself to the task of improving assets by planning on larger scale. You can thus secure that additional income you have desired so long.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You have a chance to decide what you want for yourself today, so forget about others and concentrate efforts on obtaining the things you'd like to have.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Watch out that you do not become so involved in all those angles you're working that you lose sight of the original concept.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—You quickly realize your most cherished hopes and ambitions by using that dynamic quality of yours in demonstrating your creative abilities.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Attend to all matters that concern your finances and social life. Be more meticulous with those in high places than you have been for some time past. Good luck follows.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Important First Step in Polio Is to Make Early Diagnosis

The most important step in the treatment of poliomyelitis is to make the diagnosis as early as possible. This is not always easy because the disease probably begins several days before there are any signs of paralysis.

The symptoms during this early stage are often like those of any mild infection. Also, it must be emphasized that a good many people have the early symptoms but never get any paralysis at all.

FAMILY EXAMINATION

As soon as a definite case has been discovered the other members of the family should be examined. When the diagnosis of polio has been made the patient usually should be treated in the hopsital, because the best results are obtained when the medical care, nursing, physical therapy and other treatments are readily available, as they are in most hospitals.

The patient with polio who develops trouble with breathing requires special treatment with a respirator or iron lung. This is a serious complication, of course, but many recover completely, often without any paralysis at all.

No two victims of polio are exactly alike. Experience, judgment and skill are required to get the best results from treatment. The physician, of course, should be in general charge of the measures which are undertaken.

Rest, relaxation and muscular training later are important. Proper nursing care is invaluable, as are measures to combat the muscle spasm which accompanies the early stages of poliomyelitis. Hot, wet packs help to relieve the pain and skin tenderness which often accompany the disease.

When poliomyelitis strikes it is important first that the patient be put to bed as soon as possible. A person who has an acute illness, especially at a time when poliomyelitis is around, should be placed in bed at once, regardless of how trivial the illness may appear to be.

INDIGESTION IS SIGN

An attack of indigestion, a head cold, fever or headache developing. Those who have may mean that the disease is tried to continue normal activity after the appearance of such warning signs run the risk of developing the disease in a more serious form.

The treatment of early poliomyelitis has greatly improved and will doubtless continue to do so. To get the best results, early symptoms should not be ignored and attention should be obtained right away if suspicious signs develop.

Canada's Power Resources Great Gyro Club Hears

Considering one horsepower of electrical power is equal to 10 slaves, Canada has 100,000,000 slaves working for them, G. A. Vandervoort, of the B.C. Power Commission told Victoria Gyro Club members at their luncheon meeting Monday.

"These slaves have never heard of the 40-hour week either," he quipped.

Mr. Vandervoort told club members that aluminum wiring reinforced with a steel core would stretch over great distances. He pointed out that the largest span in the world was across Kootenay Lake, where lines stretch for two miles.

Electrical transmission has fewer interruptions than some years ago, but the speaker noted that breakdowns still occur. Their causes range from airplanes to mice looking for a place to nest.

The average lightning bolt produces only about 10 cents worth of energy, Mr. Vandervoort said, but pointed out that its brief intensity often makes it dangerous.

Skidegate Hospital In Architects' Hands

Victoria architects Whittaker & Wagg have been commissioned to prepare plans and specifications for a new hospital to be erected at Skidegate, on Skidegate Inlet, Queen Charlotte Islands.

This project is at the preliminary sketch stage and Henry Whittaker left Victoria this week for the Queen Charlottes, via Prince Rupert, to confer with the hospital board there concerning the proposed building.

The Skidegate hospital will be designed to accommodate 15 beds.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Noticing a particularly beautiful yellow bearded Iris in a downtown garden the other day I stopped and asked the owner over the fence if she knew the name of the lovely flower. The lady knew only that it was an Iris, however.

This garden is well kept, has a thriving vegetable section and some good perennials, but the owner would have far more enjoyment from it, I feel, if she could recommend her plants by name to enquirers.

Hilda

This naming of individual colors or varieties of plants is far more than a whim. It is a specific designation which assures the gardener of being able to purchase a certain definite plant which he desires. Also, it enables him to discover, either by reading or by asking, the treatment of any plant he may have. Thus he may gain maximum results from his labor.

Now, "a rose by any other name" may "smell as sweet"—but among several thousands of varieties in existenece, how can we grow what we like most if we do not know any names to ask for? Some will say "a red rose is a red rose, and that's all there is to it."

But a visit to any flower show will soon prove otherwise even to the most skeptical.

On Friday and Saturday of this week the opportunity will be given to local gardeners and visitors to see at close range what kinds of roses and other summer flowers are best suited to this district. The Victoria Horticultural Society will present its Summer Flower Show at the Crystal Garden. With the cooler, slower season than usual quality of bloom should be excellent. In the vegetable section there may be some difficulty in filling some of the classes. Competition is open to members and non-members, amateurs and professionals.

The official entry form calls for all exhibits to be named (in the specimen classes), so that real information and enjoyment is assured to all gardeners whether local or visiting, for a very moderate admission charge. It is a constant source of amazement to discover the wide range of material which can be grown here on the coast.

Steelworkers Study 6-Cent Award; Had Asked 25½c

HALIFAX, N.S. (BUP)—The CIO United Steelworkers of America today studied without comment a conciliation board's recommendation that 2,178 of its members settle for a 6-cent hourly raise instead of the 25½ cents the union wanted.

The board's majority report, released Sunday night, suggested that the 6-cent raise be made retroactive to Dec. 1, 1952, and that an additional 3-cent boost go into effect Dec. 1, 1953.

A minority report suggested a 16-cent increase over the present hourly rate of $1.15.

The report of the board set up by the Nova Scotia Labor Relations Board was signed by chairman Justice Vincent J. Pottier and lawyer Frank M. Covert, both of Halifax.

Russia Ends Travel Ban on Foreigners

MOSCOW (UP) — Russia Monday virtually abolished travel restrictions imposed on foreign diplomats and news correspondents in the Soviet Union.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov announced the sweeping reform in notes to all foreign diplomatic envoys.

Diplomats may now travel to many areas of Russia heretofore banned, including parts of Siberia, Central Asia, the Ukraine, and the Baltic republics.

Foreigners may also use their automobiles to travel on highways out of Moscow. With the exception of certain areas in the Moscow district, foreign diplomats and correspondents are no longer confined to within a 30-mile radius of Moscow.

Diplomats may travel freely to such places as Siberia upon notification of the Soviet foreign office.

Restrictions remained on travel within 20 kilometres of the borders with Norway, Finland, Turkey, Afghanistan, Iran, the western border of the Ukraine and some parts of the Black Sea coast.

The new regulations apply mostly to diplomats and foreign correspondents. Other foreigners had not been under the same restrictions.

People who appreciate fine cars are turning to Monarch

"...the kind of car I've always wanted to drive"

It was Frank Wayland, a sales-manager I met last winter, who put me onto Monarch. He drives one himself and likes it so well he's always talking Monarch to his friends. He persuaded me to ask my dealer for a demonstration, and now that I'm driving my own Monarch I appreciate what a big favour he did me. This is the kind of car I've always wanted to drive. I suppose it's only natural to feel a kind of pride in owning something as luxurious-looking as a Monarch—but there's more to it than that. If you haven't driven a V-8 before, it's quite an experience to feel this kind of power. It's so smooth you don't really know it's there—until you want it in a hurry. Then there's no doubt about it. Must remember to drop a line to Frank Wayland and tell him how right he was about Monarch. A sales-manager sold me—but the car itself is keeping me sold. You could have this experience, too . . . ask your Monarch dealer for a demonstration today.

Christie Admits Seven Murders

Killed Wife of Leonard Evans London Strangler Tells Court

By ROBERT BRANSON

LONDON (UP) — "The Strangler of Notting Hill" confessed today to murdering seven women and told how he gassed and slowly choked his victims to death in a deck chair while making love too them.

More murders were pinned on John R. Christie by his own attorney as the defendant was put in the witness box at the second day of his trial on charges of killing his wife.

Derek Curtis-Bennett, famed British lawyer who defended atom traitor Klaus Fuchs, said he will prove Christie "is as mad as a March hare when he kills people." He asked the jury for a special verdict of "guilty but insane" despite the formal defense plea of innocent.

In support of Christie's insanity plea in the murder of his wife, Curtis-Bennett said:

"If you think the man who killed this woman should hang, then the proper step is to go to your member of Parliament to bring in a bill for the execution of the insane, and then it will be the law of the country."

The meek-looking little clerk took the stand before a packed court at London's grim Old Bailey courthouse.

Voice Could Hardly Be Heard

Dressed in a dark blue suit with a dotted necktie, he put out a hand to steady himself as he climbed into the box. His face was pale. His eyes stared blankly through his thick horn-rimmed glasses and his voice could barely be heard as he took the oath as a witness.

The defense attorney startled the packed Old Bailey courtroom on the second day of Christie's trial by linking the mild-mannered clerk to the 1948 murder of a woman whose husband was hanged for strangling their daughter.

Curtis-Bennett read a statement in which the 55-year-old defendant said he also strangled British factory worker Amelia Eady in 1943.

That same year, Christie's statement said, he strangled a "very tall" Austrian girl and buried her in her leopard skin coat.

He was quoted as saying he "gassed the three women" whose partly undressed bodies were found sealed behind wallpaper near his wife's body.

"I gassed the three women whose bodies were found in the alcove by getting them to sit in the deck chair in the kitchen between the table and the door," the statement said.

With a piece of rubber tubing from a gas outlet he "let the fumes rise."

"When they started getting overcome, that's when I must have strangled them," Christie explained in the statement.

In the statement the spindly defendant confessed, amid gasps from the court spectators as it was read, that he strangled Mrs. Timothy Evans in 1949.

Her husband, a 27-year-old truck driver, was convicted and hanged for the strangulation of her 14-month-old daughter which occurred two days later. Although Evans was tried only for the child's death, his wife's murder figured in his case and Christie was the chief prosecution witness at the 1950 trial.

"I feel certain I strangled Mrs. Evans and I think it was with a stocking," Christie said. "I did it because she appealed to me to help her commit suicide."

"I turned on the gas tap and as near as I can make out I held it close to her face," he said. "When she became unconscious I turned the tap off."

Covered Body With Quilt

He said he covered Mrs. Evans' body with a quilt on a bed and explained the situation to her husband.

"I told Evans that no doubt he would be suspected of having done it because of the rows and fights he had had with his wife," Christie related.

However, he denied he had anything to do with the strangulation of Evans' infant daughter.

Evans was charged with the murders of both his wife and daughter but was convicted only of the child's death. The other charge was dropped.

Both Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald and presiding judge Sir Donald Finnemore said that although Mrs. Evans' murder figured in her husband's trial, he was rightly sentenced to death for the child's murder.

Speaking in a voice that was inaudible at times, Christie recounted each of his seven confessed slayings.

At no time did he speak above a whisper. The bewigged judge had to lean over to catch some of his replies and relay them to the court.

He said that in April, 1952, his doctor told him to go to a hospital for mental treatment but "I would not go because my wife would be left on her own."

He said his wife had a choking fit in bed last December.

"Her face was bluish. She seemed to be choking . . . I tried to get her to breathe again and could not . . . I didn't like to see her like that," he said.

He broke down. His frail shoulders shook and he wept. Finally he sobbed:

"And then I put her to sleep . . . I saw a stocking there and tied it round her neck."

"I left her in bed," he said, and later "put her under the floor."

No Hearing Given Before Suspension

By GORDON FORBES, Times Legislative Reporter

Donald A. C. Smith, buying agent for the B.C. purchasing commission, broke his silence today to relate the details of the incident which led up to the provincial government's suspension of himself and another high government official.

Mr. Smith, in a statement to the Times, declared he had been dealt a "grave injustice" in the one month's suspension over purchase of a grader, because he was given no chance to explain his actions.

"There was no proper investigation in this case," Mr. Smith said. "I was suspended without even being called in to the minister's office to defend myself. I had to ask for a hearing after I was suspended."

Mr. Smith said he would welcome an inquiry into the whole case "because I know myself and Mr. Crowe would be absolutely cleared."

Nothing to Hide Says Smith

Mr. Smith, and Bert Crowe, forestry department mechanical superintendent, were given one-month suspensions by Premier Bennett for allegedly accepting a revised bid on a grader for the forestry department after tenders had been opened. They were suspended even though their action saved the government $500.

Breaking his official silence this morning, Mr. Smith said:

"The fact that I have remained silent since my suspension seems to have created an erroneous impression that I have something to hide. This is not the case.

"I very much appreciate Mr. Gunderson's statement that I had done nothing dishonest. But I feel that a statement of the facts of the case are necessary."

The buying agent, who has worked for the government for 30 years with an unblemished record, said the "fact of the matter is I was damned if i did and damned if I didn't" in the situation.

Here's his statement:

"In the first instance quotations were called for a grader for the forestry department. They were recapitulated in the usual manner and submitted to the forestry department for its analysis and selection.

"In the meantime, the forestry department received a letter from Pacific Tractor Co. of Vancouver, one of the bidders, stating as they already had an order for one of this type of grader for the public works department that a saving of $500 could be passed on to the government if the forestry department cared to avail themselves of their type of grader (Warco).

Forestry Department Contacted

"The forestry department returned our recapitulation, selecting this Warco grader as the one most desirable for their operation, setting out in detail the reasons for its selection.

"Before taking into consideration this $500 saving, the forestry department again was contacted (by phone) as to whether this $500 in question had any bearing on the selection. The answer from Mr. Crowe was 'no.'

"It was felt under these conditions that every precaution had been taken in assuming that this $500 saving had nothing to do with the selection. The forestry department needed that particular type of grader, regardless of the $500.

"Under these conditions, it was felt criticism would be forthcoming if the $500 was not taken into consideration and deducted from the amount of the order. If that wasn't done, we would have been throwing away $500.

"Regarding the change in the quotation, which seems to be the bone of contention, this was merely done as information to the stenographers who take particulars directly from the quotation submitted.

"As the $500 freight allowance affected the tax, it was necessary to change the totals accordingly. But this could not be construed as a change in the quotation.

'Leave It to the Public to Judge'

"I'm quite pleased to leave it up to the public to judge for themselves as to whether the action was warranted.

"I feel that had a proper investigation been made before the suspension decision was made, this matter could have been cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned.

"I feel I have taken every precaution in this matter and acted both in the best interest of the government and the public in general.

"I must stress that I don't interpret my action on the freight allowance as being the same as revising a bid. I contend that this matter was brought about by the fact that two graders were shipped on one car, and the firm was good enough to pass the saving on to the government. And I was definitely informed that this grader was the only one suitable for the particular operation.

"The company was going to get the contract, regardless

39 GERMANS DIE IN UPRISINGS

Adenauer Tells Berliners 'We Shall Not Rest Until All Germany Has Freedom Again

BERLIN (UP)—Russian execution squads and Communist courts dealt out merciless reprisal today for East Germany's June 17 uprisings, while all West Germany went into an official state of mourning.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flew to Berlin from Bonn to address a mass meeting at Berlin city hall and to pledge "we shall not rest" until the entire German people "have freedom again."

Flags throughout West Germany flew at half staff.

The Communists disclosed that a second East German had been executed as a ringleader in last week's bloody revolt—this time at Jena, scene of some of the wildest rioting in the Soviet zone.

Eight citizens of West Berlin were known dead and at least 218 others were missing as result of the revolt which exploded first in Soviet-run East Berlin and spread to the entire Soviet zone of East Germany.

From at least seven other East German cities came continuing reports of clashes between ragged East German workers and Russian tanks and troops. In the uneven struggle, the demonstrators hurled bricks and stones at the tanks which in turn fired at point blank range.

Twenty-five were reported killed in Leipzig alone where some of the demonstrators were crushed beneath the tank treads.

Throughout the entire seething zone, Russian reprisals were swift and harsh.

FIVE REPORTED EXECUTED

Five persons were reported executed at Magdeburg.

Rioting and bloodshed were reported from Magdeburg, Unterwellenborn Quedlinburg, Merseburg, Leipzig, Thale and Schierke.

Eight coffins rested side by side on the West Berlin city hall steps today as Adenauer delivered "a solemn oath on behalf of the whole German people" not to rest until the Soviet zone's 18,000,000 people are freed and Germany is united again.

59 Today

Telegrams, letters and telephone calls from all over the world poured today into the Paris home of the Duke of Windsor, congratulating him on his 59th birthday. The Duke and his American-born Duchess, for whom he gave up the British throne, spent the day quietly, with no special celebration except a quiet dinner party with friends.

Five Polio Deaths In Yukon Epidemic

EDMONTON (CP)—An outbreak of polio in the Yukon has taken at least five lives, striking 59 civilians and 71 military men and their dependents.

Dr. M. R. Bow, Yukon's chief medical officer, said today that the 16 paralytic and 43 non-paralytic civilian cases have included three deaths.

Meanwhile, Col. E. J. Young, the army's Western Command medical officer, reports that of the 71 cases in military families, 17 are paralytic, 44 non-paralytic and eight are not yet diagnosed. There have been two deaths among the military cases.

ROKS Ready to Fight Alone, Rhee Tells UN

Defiant South Korean President Warns Troops to Fight Indians Sent to Guard PWs

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Defiant President Syngman Rhee said today his army would "fight alone" if an unacceptable truce is signed and warned his troops would fight any Indians sent to guard war prisoners.

The 78-year-old president made it clear in two public statements and at a 15-minute meeting with Gen. Mark W. Clark that South Korea's "final" decision was to continue the fight against the Communists.

Rhee also gave Clark a three-point armistice plan that would remove Chinese Communist troops from North Korea, give Rhee a mutual security pact with the United States, and limit a postwar political conference in Korea to three months.

He told Clark at the presidential palace in a remarkably friendly meeting that his decision to reject the current agreement between the United Nations and Communists is unchanged.

Clark flew back to Tokyo shortly afterward, giving Rhee a cordial back-slap before getting on the plane.

Rhee denied reports Clark had handed him an ultimatum during a 70-minute meeting Monday and the brief encounter today.

"It would be more correct to say I delivered the ultimatum," Rhee said.

United Nations officials and Eighth Army officers appeared convinced the rebellious Rhee actually would not send his 400,000-man army against 1,000,000 Chinese and North Koreans.

They believed, however, that Rhee had "reserved the right" to take independent action against the Communists.

"COMMUNIST" STATE

Rhee branded India as a "Communist" state which would favor Red "explainers" in reindoctrinating anti-Communist prisoners.

For this reason, Rhee said a clash between South Korean and Indian troops would be "inevitable."

"Who is going to stop it?" he asked. "That clash is inevitable. You should thank me for telling you."

Rhee emphasized in his interview his position as the major force standing between the UN and a truce with the Reds.

"They do not try to force the Kremlin or the Chinese Communists," he said. "They only try to force me, a stubborn, weak old man. How can they think of such a thing? I can't understand it?"

Pinay Meets Problems in Cabinet Bid

PARIS (UP)—Antoine Pinay, the small businessman who as premier of France caught the public fancy last year with his "save the franc" campaign, faced tough sledding today in his attempt to become premier again in time for the Bermuda Big Three meeting.

Pinay had two key parties against him—one right wing and one toward the left. And while he attempted, through politics, to patch up a makeshift truce, paralysis crept further through the nation's financial system.

Premier Rene Mayer, whose downfall May 21 started the record-breaking 34-day crisis, called a cabinet meeting for this morning to deal with the financial crisis on an emergency basis.

The lame-duck cabinet drew up a bill to legalize another huge inflationary overdraft on the Bank of France to save the nation from bankruptcy.

The bill permits the government to draw up to $142,850,000 from the Bank of France to strengthen the nearly empty treasury.

The national assembly was called in emergency session later today to approve the measure.

Death of Nehru's Opponent Causes India Street Battles

NEW DELHI (AP) — Club-swinging police and Hindu extremists battled in the streets of India's capital today in the wake of the death in political captivity of Syama Prasad Mookerjee, a major opponent of Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

Mookerjee, 52-year-old leader of the extremist Jan Sangh party, died early today in Srinagar, capital of Kashmir, where he was jailed five weeks ago for defying a ban on his entering his state. Seizure of Hindu-owned lands by the predominantly Moslem Kashmir State government had caused Jan Sangh agitation and violence in neighboring Punjab.

The government attributed Mookerjee's death to a heart attack following pleurisy and said he had been moved to a nursing home when he became ill.

News of his death brought 1,000 demonstrators into streets of the old sections of the city. Police officials said constables charged the mob with clubs and arrested 20 demonstrators after four policemen were seriously wounded. Police took special security measures through the capital.

WIRE BRIEFS

Hope Fades for Plane

TOKYO (Reuters) — Hope faded tonight for seven United States servicemen aboard a "flying boxcar" transport which disappeared early this morning over the mountains of Kyushu in southern Japan.

De Gasperi in London

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi of Italy arrived here today for top-level talks with Prime Minister Churchill and leading British government officials.

WEATHER IS GETTING MILDER

Scientist Confirms Old-Timer's Tales

SASKATOON (CP)—The persistent change to higher temperatures suggests the northern hemisphere is entering an upward weather cycle that could have great economic significance to Canada and Europe, Dr. B. W. Currie, head of the department of physics, University of Saskatchewan, told the Canadian Phytopatsological Society, a section of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, Monday night.

Investigation has shown that a gradual rise in temperatures had gone on for as long as 1,500 years.

If temperatures continue to rise through this long period, Dr. Currie visualizes millions of additional acres of land going into agricultural production in Canada and Europe, the St. Lawrence, Great Lakes and Hudson Bay open to shipping almost the year round and easier and greater development of Canada's northern resources.

Dr. Currie said significant trends in precipitation and temperature are apparent in Prairie weather records.

Temperatures have been steadily rising since 1880, Dr. Currie said.

The disadvantage to the rise in temperature was the increased evaporation of moisture without additional rain to compensate for it. The advantage was a growing season eight to nine days longer than 50 years ago. The cold-line for the production of economic crops has moved north perhaps 50 to 100 miles by this long-continued change, he said.

ST. LAURENT OPENS CAMPAIGN

Liberal Leader Warns Nation Not to Endanger Prosperity

BY CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister St. Laurent, raising the spectre of the depression-ridden thirties, Monday night launched the Liberal party's bid for re-election. He said Canadians risk their prosperity if his government is not returned Aug. 10.

The prime minister entered the pre-election fray with a speech in English and French over CBC networks, repeating it with some elaboration on a platform in Windsor, Ont.

Mr. St. Laurent, seeking a second term since succeeding the late prime minister Mackenzie King in 1948, said the next government may have to decide questions "which will determine whether there is to be peace or war, continued prosperity or another depression."

"This is surely not a time to take needless risks with our own future."

Canadians were going to think back to the terrible conditions of the thirties and contrast them with today's conditions. Since the Conservatives' term in power, 1930-35, Canada achieved economic strength, stature in the eyes of the world and sturdy unity at home with the Liberals.

The Liberals did not claim all the credit but "I am sure most of us will want to be careful we do not risk losing what has been gained."

Christie Admits Seven Murders

Killed Wife of Timothy Evans London Strangler Tells Court

By ROBERT BRANSON

LONDON (UP) — "The Strangler of Notting Hill" confessed today to murdering seven women and told how he gassed and slowly choked his victims to death in a deck chair while making love to them.

More murders were pinned on John R. Christie by his own attorney as the defendant was put in the witness box at the second day of his trial on charges of killing his wife.

Derek Curtis-Bennett, famed British lawyer who defended atom traitor Klaus Fuchs, said he will prove Christie "is as mad as a March hare when he kills people." He asked the jury for a special verdict of "guilty but insane" despite the formal defense plea of innocent.

In support of Christie's insanity plea in the murder of his wife, Curtis-Bennett said:

"If you think the man who killed this woman should hang, then the proper step is to go to your member of Parliament to bring in a bill for the execution of the insane, and then it will be the law of the country."

The meek-looking little clerk took the stand before a packed court at London's grim Old Bailey courthouse.

Voice Could Hardly Be Heard

Dressed in a dark blue suit with a dotted necktie, he put out a hand to steady himself as he climbed into the box. His face was pale. His eyes stared blankly through his thick horn-rimmed glasses and his voice could barely be heard as he took the oath as a witness.

The defense attorney startled the packed Old Bailey courtroom on the second day of Christie's trial by linking the mild-mannered clerk to the 1948 murder of a woman whose husband was hanged for strangling their daughter.

Curtis-Bennett read a statement in which the 55-year-old defendant said he also strangled British factory worker Amelia Eady in 1943.

That same year, Christie's statement said, he strangled a "very tall" Austrian girl and buried her in her leopard skin coat.

He was quoted as saying he "gassed the three women" whose partly undressed bodies were found sealed behind wallpaper near his wife's body.

"I gassed the three women whose bodies were found in the alcove by getting them to sit in the deck chair in the kitchen between the table and the door," the statement said.

With a piece of rubber tubing from a gas outlet he "let the fumes rise."

"When they started getting overcome, that's when I must have strangled them," Christie explained in the statement.

In the statement the spindly defendant confessed, amid gasps from the court spectators as it was read, that he strangled Mrs. Timothy Evans in 1949.

Her husband, a 27-year-old truck driver, was convicted and hanged for the strangulation of her 14-month-old daughter which occurred two days later. Although Evans was tried only for the child's death, his wife's murder figured in his case and Christie was the chief prosecution witness at the 1950 trial.

"I feel certain I strangled Mrs. Evans and I think it was with a stocking," Christie said. "I did it because she appealed to me to help her commit suicide."

"I turned on the gas tap and as near as I can make out I held it close to her face," he said. "When she became unconscious I turned the tap off."

Covered Body With Quilt

He said he covered Mrs. Evans' body with a quilt on a bed and explained the situation to her husband.

"I told Evans that no doubt he would be suspected of having done it because of the rows and fights he had had with his wife," Christie related.

However, he denied he had anything to do with the strangulation of Evans' infant daughter.

Evans was charged with the murders of both his wife and daughter but was convicted only of the child's death. The other charge was dropped.

Both Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald and presiding judge Sir Donald Finnemore said that although Mrs. Evans' murder figured in her husband's trial, he was rightly sentenced to death for the child's murder.

Speaking in a voice that was inaudible at times, Christie recounted each of his seven confessed slayings.

At no time did he speak above a whisper. The bewigged judge had to lean over to catch some of his replies and relay them to the court.

He said that in April, 1952, his doctor told him to go to a hospital for mental treatment but "I would not go because my wife would be left on her own."

He said his wife had a choking fit in bed last December.

"Her face was bluish. She seemed to be choking . . . I tried to get her to breathe again and could not . . . I didn't like to see her like that," he said.

He broke down. His frail shoulders shook and he wept. Finally he sobbed:

"And then I put her to sleep . . . I saw a stocking there and tied it round her neck."

"I left her in bed," he said, and later "put her under the floor."

39 GERMANS DIE IN UPRISINGS

Second Riot Leader Executed; Revolt Continues in Eight Cities

BERLIN (UP)—Russian execution squads and Communist courts dealt out merciless reprisal today for East Germany's June 17 uprisings, while all West Germany went into an official state of mourning.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flew to Berlin from Bonn to address a mass meeting at Berlin city hall and to pledge "we shall not rest" until the entire German people "have freedom again."

Flags throughout West Germany flew at half staff.

The Communists disclosed that a second East German had been executed as a ringleader in last week's bloody revolt—this time at Jena, scene of some of the wildest rioting in the Soviet zone.

Eight citizens of West Berlin were known dead and at least 218 others were missing as result of the revolt which exploded first in Soviet-run East Berlin and spread to the entire Soviet zone of East Germany.

From at least seven other East German cities came continuing reports of clashes between ragged East German workers and Russian tanks and troops. In the uneven struggle, the demonstrators hurled bricks and stones at the tanks which in turn fired at point blank range.

Twenty-five were reported killed in Leipzig alone where some of the demonstrators were crushed beneath the tank treads.

Throughout the entire seething zone, Russian reprisals were swift and harsh.

FIVE REPORTED EXECUTED

Five persons were reported executed at Magdeburg.

Rioting and bloodshed were reported from Magdeburg, Unterwellenborn Quedlinburg, Merseburg, Leipzig, Thale and Schierke.

Eight coffins rested side by side on the West Berlin city hall steps today as Adenauer delivered "a solemn oath on behalf of the whole German people" not to rest until the Soviet zone's 18,000,000 people are freed and Germany is united again.

59 Today

Telegrams, letters and telephone calls from all over the world poured today into the Paris home of the Duke of Windsor, congratulating him on his 59th birthday. The Duke and his American-born Duchess, for whom he gave up the British throne, spent the day quietly, with no special celebration except a quiet dinner party with friends.

No Hearing Given Before Suspension

By GORDON FORBES, Times Legislative Reporter

Donald A. C. Smith, buying agent for the B.C. purchasing commission, broke his silence today to relate the details of the incident which led up to the provincial government's suspension of himself and another high government official.

Mr. Smith, in a statement to the Times, declared he had been dealt a "grave injustice" in the one month's suspension over purchase of a grader, because he was given no chance to explain his actions to the government.

"There was no proper investigation in this case," Mr. Smith said. "I was suspended without even being called in to the minister's office to defend myself. I had to ask for a hearing after I was suspended."

Mr. Smith said he would welcome an inquiry into the whole case "because I know myself and Mr. Crowe would be absolutely cleared."

Nothing to Hide Says Smith

Mr. Smith, and Bert Crowe, forestry department mechanical superintendent, were given one-month suspensions by Premier Bennett for allegedly accepting a revised bid on a grader for the forestry department after tenders had been opened. They were suspended even though their action saved the government $500.

Breaking his official silence this morning, Mr. Smith said:

"The fact that I have remained silent since my suspension seems to have created an erroneous impression that I have something to hide. This is not the case.

"I very much appreciate Mr. Gunderson's statement that I had done nothing dishonest. But I feel that a statement of the facts of the case are necessary."

The buying agent, who has worked for the government for 30 years with an unblemished record, said the "fact of the matter as I was damned if I did and dammned if I didn't" in the situation.

Here's his statement:

"In the first instance quotations were called for a grader for the forestry department. They were recapitulated in the usual manner and submitted to the forestry department for its analysis and selection.

"In the meantime, the forestry department received a letter from Pacific Tractor Co. of Vancouver, one of the bidders, stating as they already had an order for one of this type of grader for the public works department that a saving of $500 could be passed on to the government if the forestry department cared to avail themselves of their type of grader (Warco).

Forestry Department Contacted

"The forestry department returned our recapitulation, selecting this Warco grader as the one most desirable for their operation, setting out in detail the reasons for its selection.

"Before taking into consideration this $500 saving, the forestry department again was contacted (by phone) as to whether this $500 in question had any bearing on the selection. The answer from Mr. Crowe was 'no.'

"It was felt under these conditions that every precaution had been taken in assuming that this $500 saving had nothing to do with the selection. The forestry department needed that particular type of grader, regardless of the $500.

"Under these conditions, it was felt criticism would be forthcoming if the $500 was not taken into consideration and deducted from the amount of the order. If that wasn't done, we would have been throwing away $500.

"Regarding the change in the quotation, which seems to be the bone of contention, this was merely done as information to the stenographers who take particulars directly from the quotation submitted.

"As the $500 freight allowance affected the tax, it was necessary to change the totals accordingly. But this could not be construed as a change in the quotation.

'Leave It to the Public to Judge'

"I'm quite pleased to leave it up to the public to judge for themselves as to whether the action was warranted.

"I feel that had a proper investigation been made before the suspension, decision was made, this matter could have been cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned.

"I feel I have taken every precaution in this matter and acted both in the best interest of the government and the public in general.

"I must stress that I don't interpret my action on the freight allowance as being the same as revising a bid. I contend that this matter was brought about by the fact that two graders were shipped on one car, and the firm was good enough to pass the saving on to the government. And I was definitely informed that this grader was the only one suitable for the particular operation.

"The company was going to get the contract, regardless

Death of Nehru's Opponent Causes India Street Battles

NEW DELHI (AP) — Club-swinging police and Hindu extremists battled in the streets of India's capital today in the wake of the death in political captivity of Syama Prasad Mookerjee, a major opponent of Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

Mookerjee, 52-year-old leader of the extremist Jan Sangh party, died early today in Srinagar, capital of Kashmir, where he was jailed five weeks ago for defying a ban on his entering his state. Seizure of Hindu-owned lands by the predominantly Moslem Kashmir State government had caused Jan Sangh agitation and violence in neighboring Punjab.

The government attributed Mookerjee's death to a heart attack following pleurisy and said he had been moved to a nursing home when he became ill.
